U. S. Wheat Farmers Decide To Continue Market Quotas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers in Eastern states and in Kansas — the nation's No. 1 producing state — gave a favorable vote Saturday night in returns from a referendum on the question of controlling the 1956 wheat crop.

The vote from 13 states was 50,970 for marketing quotas and 20,091 against.

This was a favorable margin of 71.7 per cent—compared with the necessary 66.7.

The vote in these states was running close to that cast in a similar referendum a year ago.

Kansas voted 36,473 for and 13,141 against. Wisconsin voted 52 for and 25 against.

Farmers voted specifically on the question of whether to accept marketing quotas, designed to limit sales of the grain to the amount grown on roughly 55 million acres. This would be about 30 million short of the postwar peaks. Under similar controls approved for this year, the same number of acres were allotted growers.

Approval by at least two-thirds of those voting was required to make the quotas operative. They were approved for this year's crop by a majority of 73.3 per cent. In speculating on the possibility of a delay in determining the results, officials pointed out that in past referenda there have been quite a number of "challenged" votes. In the case of a very close contest, such votes — which are later accepted or rejected by officials — could settle the issue.

Reports from major wheat producing areas indicate that most growers agree there is too much surplus wheat but there is considerable disagreement as to what should be done about it.

The nation now has reserve and surplus stocks totaling nearly one billion bushels, more than enough to meet market needs for a year. Much of it has been taken over by the government under price support, involving a federal investment of nearly 2½ billion dollars.

Unless Congress should change the law, the voting will determine whether the government support rate for the 1956 crop will average $1.81 or $1.19 a bushel nationally. This year's average is $2.06.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson has announced that the support rate, under the new flexible price support system, will be 76 per cent of parity or an average of $1.81 if quotas are approved. But farm law directs that supports be dropped to 50 per cent of parity if quotas are rejected.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices they must pay.

Farewell Tears Flow As Embattled Woman FCC Member Leaves Service

By JACK ADAMS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Blonde Frieda B. Henneck cleared her desk for a departure from government service Saturday — "with no hard feelings" — and as usual, some unusual circumstances attended the event.

Tears flowed freely at a send-off party Thursday for the Federal Communications Commission's first and only woman member. The affair was arranged by FCC's rank-and-file workers, to whom Miss Henneck has always been "Frieda."

And 900 showed up to say goodbye. Miss Henneck, whose smart dress and penetrating cross-examination have enlivened many a commission hearing in the last seven years, wept openly. So did a great many others who stood in line for a goodbye handshake.

Miss Henneck decided Saturday against any farewell statement on her FCC career, marked frequently by vigorous dissent from majority opinions, and in the last two years by stinging criticism of some commission policies.

She said only: "I have no hard feelings, if they felt they didn't need me."

President Eisenhower recently named Richard A. Mack, Florida public service commissioner, a Democrat, to replace Miss Henneck at the end of her term next Friday, July 1.

Miss Henneck was appointed by President Truman in mid-1948.

At one time New York state's youngest woman lawyer, she resigned a partnership in the New York City law firm of Choate, Mitchell & Ely to join the FCC. Her partnership was a "first" for a woman in that 150-year-old firm.

Born in Kobel, Poland, 50 years ago, the youngest of eight children, she came to America at the age of 6 and obtained her U. S. citizenship through the naturalization of her parents.

As an FCC member, Miss Henneck was perhaps best known to the general public for her unyielding demand that a substantial portion of all authorized television channels be set aside exclusively for noncommercial, educational use.

A beautiful and witty woman with the gift of gab, Miss Henneck took this campaign to the country and is generally credited with generating such wide interest that slightly more than 10 per cent of the present TV system is reserved for school use.

She has bluntly condemned some off-color programs. And she has insisted that control of mass communications—radio, TV, newspapers—be kept diversified, sharply criticizing grants by the commission majority which she regarded as tending to concentrate such control.

She has consistently opposed the new satellite TV stations, those which simply pick up and rebroadcast the programs of another outlet in an adjacent city. Some of these authorizations, she has said, involve "incredible departure" from FCC's long-standing insistence upon local-service emphasis for all broadcasting outlets.

Miss Henneck recently jolted the industry with a proposal that in major campaigns, such as for the presidency and Congress, the candidates of the major political parties all be given equal time free, to present their cases to the public.

"The length of the purse," she said, should never determine who got the most audience.

Russ Offer ½ Cost Of Plane; Knowland: 'Attack Deliberate'

Others Believe Russians Just Trigger-Happy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Knowland charged Saturday that Russian jet fighters deliberately attacked an American navy patrol plane over the Bering Sea to test Alaskan defenses.

The California senator said he felt very strongly the Wednesday morning assault "was not an isolated incident." He added, "I don't think Communist pilots in that command operate on their own initiative."

An opposing school of thought, however, suggested the hail of fire stemmed from trigger-happy pilots who, far from advancing deliberate Soviet policy, may have embarrassed Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in his sweet talk of peace.

This view was expressed privately by some diplomatic authorities here and seemed to be backed by Sen. Bridges (R-NH), chairman of the GOP Senate Policy Committee, who said "it probably was a local incident."

The United States forged ahead with preparations for the summit conference of Big Four chiefs of government in Geneva three weeks hence despite official anger over the shooting.

Speculation was widespread as to effects of the incident on those talks. But some diplomatic officials said the broad prospects might be changed little, if any.

They conceded the conference outlook could be darkened if Russia made a belligerent reply to Secretary of State Dulles' personal demand upon Molotov for an explanation.

Officials believed a restrained or even conciliatory reply from Moscow would be more in accord with the "peace and good will" drive which Russian leaders have been attempting — apparently in the hope of winning trade and other concessions from the West.

Bridges, perhaps significantly, was touring with President Eisenhower when he took a moderate tone toward the attack. The New Hampshire senator said he hoped Russia soon would make a full explanation.

Assembly Back To Work Tomorrow; Drives To End Session By June 30

By ROGER LANE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois General Assembly returns to work Monday with good prospects of ringing down the curtain on its 1955 session by the traditional June 30 adjournment date.

After a busy week in which top priority tax and constitutional questions were settled, few really big issues will confront the lawmakers as they enter the windup phase.

In the revenue field, interest centers on a proposal to empower cities to levy a 5 per cent tax on gross receipts of public utilities—part of the Stratton-Daley tax program.

The bill, approved by the Senate, is pending in the House where opposition reportedly is growing. However, the measure has powerful bipartisan backing. The vote is expected to be close.

Another feature of the program worked out by Republican Gov. Stratton and Mayor Daley of Chicago, a Democrat, awaits final clearance by the Assembly. It is the "use" tax bill, in the Senate for concurrence in House amendments.

A third revenue measure still pending would apply the state sales tax to certain transactions of contractors now exempt. The bill has passed the Senate and is in the House.

A constitutional issue facing conclusive action in the Senate is the House-approved resolution for putting on the 1956 general election ballot the so-called anti-diversion amendment.

The amendment would restrict spending of revenues derived from motor fuel taxes and vehicle licenses to highway and related purposes. This is customary legislative practice.

Two other road matters on which the Senate will have the last word are authorizing a 245 million dollar bond issue for speeding up Chicago expressway construction and curbing powers of the Illinois Toll Highway Commission. The House has approved in both cases.

The turnpike proposals are wrapped up in about a dozen bills, some of which undoubtedly will be defeated in deference to the governor's wishes. Most carry out recommendations by a special House committee which investigated the Toll Roads Commission and blasted its chairman, Evan Howell, a former colleague of Stratton's in Congress.

Three important questions confronting the House are the Broyles anti-subversive bills, the 100 million dollar Korean war veterans bonus plan and bills to allow the governor to send the attorney general into any county to exercise (continued on page 11)

Molotov Expresses His Regrets Over Incident At Session With Dulles

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov Saturday expressed regret for the shooting down of an American navy plane in the Bering Straits last Wednesday and said Russia was willing to pay one-half the damages.

The Soviet foreign minister disclosed his position in a memorandum which he handed to secretary of state John Foster Dulles at a hurriedly-arranged meeting Saturday afternoon.

Dulles immediately informed President Eisenhower by telephone and said he would discuss the matter further with the President when they are both in Washington on Monday. Dulles told Molotov that the offer to pay 50 per cent of the damages fell short of what the United States had requested.

Dulles had gone to Rutherford, Calif., for a swim and for lunch with friends and had just begun his lunch when the Soviet delegation telephoned and said Molotov wanted urgently to see him to present a note on the plane incident.

The secretary returned to San Francisco in a state highway patrol car. He covered the 66 miles in 65 minutes. Molotov arrived at his hotel 10 minutes after the secretary of state returned.

Present at the talks in Dulles' suite at the Mark Hopkins Hotel, in addition to the two ministers, were Charles E. Bohlen, U.S. ambassador to Moscow; Georgi N. Zarubin, Soviet ambassador to Washington, and an interpreter.

At the end of the meeting, the State Department issued the following statement:

"The Soviet foreign minister, Mr. Molotov, gave Secretary of State Dulles a memorandum with reference to the incident of the shooting down by Soviet aircraft of the United States Neptune-type naval plane in the vicinity of St. Lawrence Island, Alaska.

"The Soviet government asserts that the United States plane was within Soviet air space but under atmospheric conditions which made possible an error on one side or another in regard to the exact location of the plane at the moment of the incident. In view of these circumstances the Soviet government re-expresses its regret in regard to the incident and offers to pay 50 per cent of the cost of the damages inflicted.

"Secretary Dulles stated that while he accepted with satisfaction the Soviet government's expressions of regret, the offer as a whole fell short of what he had requested of the Soviet government in the light of information he had received.

"Secretary Dulles at once advised the President with reference to the Soviet government's proposal and will discuss the matter further with him when they are both in Washington on Monday."

Molotov left directly to catch his train for New York. Dulles planned to leave later by special military plane for the capital.

Earlier Saturday, Molotov said direct talks between Red China and the United States on the Far East would be "useful in consolidating the peace all nations desire."

The Soviet foreign minister thus endorsed fully a suggestion by Premier Chou En-lai of Red China for direct talks. He did so at an unexpected news conference.

Molotov said the Chou proposal, made at the Bandung conference, was of "great importance."

Later he added:

"They had been married 67 years."

Born in Freeport, Ill., Jan. 22, 1893, Jungkunz was described in various newspaper stories as the man with the unusual hobby of standing on his head to celebrate every birthday including the last one.

They had been married 67 years.

Spectacular Fire On Fuel Barges Kills 3, Burns 6

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A spectacular fire in a nest of gasoline barges killed three persons and burned six others at the Texas Co.'s Tennessee River terminal during an electrical storm Saturday.

The Red Cross announced it will drag the river Sunday in search of three crewmen still missing, now believed drowned.

The dead, members of the 13-member crew of the towboat Donna Lee, operated by the Melching Barge Lines, Joliet, Ill., were identified as Frank Decker, 45, Tilane, Ky., a deckhand; Elsie McCann, Alton, Ill., the cook; and Louise Tilton, Wood River, Ill., relief cook.

Listed in critical condition with burns was Ferris Hynds, Bureau, Ill., an oiler.

Molotov Ups, Downs At Meet Yield 'Even Break'

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — V. M. Molotov broke just about even during his week-long stand at the U.N. celebration.

To some delegations, it is a fair score since the Russian foreign minister pulled one boner and his associates back home pulled another for him.

Molotov's boner came in his speech to the 10th anniversary meeting of the U.N. last Wednesday. His call for peaceful coexistence was so hedged in with barbs about "aggressive blocs" and other naughty things attributed to the West that it was nearly buried.

Then, just when he seemed to be getting somewhere with a program of cordiality and smiles, word was flashed that Russian type MIGs had shot at an American naval bomber for no apparent reason. That incident took place over the Bering Strait off Alaska on Wednesday, the same day on which Molotov was making his peace pitch here.

In the silence of his room at the palatial estate the Russians rented for him at Hillsborough, 25 miles from the city, Molotov must have wondered what was the use. Still, he kept smiling and even turned out with the top members of his delegation for the speech by former President Harry S. Truman, whose appearance Molotov earlier had opposed.

Molotov arrived a week ago today after a 3,000-mile train ride across the United States. He had taken a good look at the countryside and seemed to enjoy it.

He began a program of entertainment at his estate that kept him busy at lunches and dinners. His guest list included virtually all the 55 other delegations. It was topped by a special luncheon on Thursday for Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. The two talked, with the aid of Molotov's interpreter, after the luncheon and both seemed satisfied with their conversation.

Lucero May Take Reins If Peron Quits In 1958

By FRED L. STROZIER

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — If President Peron steps down from office when he finishes his second six-year term he may have a natural successor to his liking — Maj. Gen. Franklin Lucero, the army minister.

It seems a little early to be thinking about the 1958 presidential election so soon after last week's bloody revolt that shook the Peron regime. But it is definitely a main topic of conversation among officials and diplomats.

Peron, now approaching 60, is vigorous and athletic. He has his heavy office work well organized and obviously likes being president. His present term won't be over for three more years.

In a radio address Thursday, he said the only reason he did not step down after the revolt was because "I really fear the consequences my selfishness would bring down on the nation."

Under the constitution as rewritten by the Peronista party in 1949, Peron can be a candidate again, and there is no certainty he will not seek a third term. Heretofore, under Peron's nine-year rule as strongman, nobody has been permitted to emerge as his possible successor. Anyone seeking to engineer a personal buildup has been knocked down before he could get started.

In the present situation, circumstances have catapulted Lucero into the limelight, and he has conducted himself in a manner best suited to win Peron's approval. He rallied the army behind Peron's constitutionally elected government and directed the armed forces and all the nation's police in restoring order.

Lucero is a modest, hardworking professional who was hardly known outside his sphere 10 days ago. He has served Argentina abroad as military attaché in Chile and the United States and was Argentina's member of the Inter-American Defense Council in Washington. He staunchly supported Peron in an earlier abortive revolt by members of the military in 1951. He was made a brigadier general in 1947 and now is a major general.

British Seamen Call Off 26-Day Wildcat Walkout

LONDON (AP) — Striking seamen Saturday called off their wildcat walkout which bottled up Britain's passenger fleet for 26 days in the midst of the tourist season.

Still out are 18,000 stevedores, their ranks divided in an inter-union fight for bargaining rights. Monday, the seamen admitted many of their number already had returned because of dwindling funds and the government's move to draft those under 26 into the armed forces.

At Liverpool, where the strike began when more than 150 men walked off the Cunard liner Ascania, the seamen said they were returning to work on one condition—that the strike committee be reinstated in the merchant navy pool. Reports from Liverpool said the committee probably would be reinstated.

At Southampton, seamen who joined the strike June 4 gave up when they heard the Liverpool men had voted to go back to their ships.

When the strike was at its height about 630 men were out, most of them from the Queen Mary, the Mauretania and the Scythia.

With the strike settled the Cunard line arranged for the Mauretania to sail Monday and the Queen Mary Tuesday—both for New York.

The seamen's union refused to back the strike. Officials said they agreed with the men's objectives—but not their methods.

Editor Speeds To See His 3 New Daughters

GANDER, Nfld. (AP) — A country newspaperman from Windom, Minnesota, sped Saturday to a hospital in Gander to see his three new daughters — almost born aboard a transatlantic liner in flight from Oslo.

Gordon Keith, 39, part-owner and associate editor of the Cottonwood County Citizen, a weekly newspaper, drove 150 miles to Minneapolis and took a plane for Gander via New York after hearing that his wife, Ruth, 30, had the triplets in a hospital here.

She was returning from Oslo where she had been visiting her ailing mother. Aboard the New York-bound Scandinavian Airlines plane with her were Tordis, 3, another daughter, and a son, Bruce, 14 months.

Labor gains signalled that the babies might be coming. Pilot Gordon Whitfield asked Prestwick, Scotland, by radio for medical advice and was told "give her a sedative." The plane was then 800 miles off Gander.

He raced the plane for the international airport here, and Mrs. Keith was taken off in an ambulance at 8:30 a.m. and removed to the Sir Frederick Banting Memorial Hospital.

At 6 p.m. — hours after the alarm Whitfield and his crew had — Mrs. Keith gave birth to the first daughter, weight 3 pounds, 6 ounces. Three hours and 10 minutes later the second daughter, weight 3 pounds, 4¼ ounces, was born; followed by the third weighing 3 pounds 1½ ounces.

BULLFROGS — MORGAN STYLE

CARL YEAKEL of Meredosia is decidedly in favor of froglegs every day in the year, but he doesn't fancy paying $2.50 up per copy for them at restaurants. He refuses to do so when the frog season is open in Morgan county, for the Lower Illinois River valley is the address of some of the best bullfrogs in the land.

He's shown here holding a day's limit, 8. The season opened June 15 and will close Aug. 31.

It's unlawful to use anything except a hook and line to catch the lusty croakers. Fly rod experts use a light line weighted with a small sinker, with a bit of red cloth for bait. This is tossed in front of the frog as he sits near the bank. Sometimes he thinks the cloth is an insect, bites away at it and is brought into the bag.

Bait casters use a bright plug to gain the same end.

Other froggers disdain such fancy gear, but use a light willow pole, a short length of copper wire and a treble hook, one with three barbs on a single shank. After the frog is spotted the angler creeps near and works the hook under the chin of the frog and then gives the pole a sharp heave-ho. Sometimes there's a frog on the hook, and often there isn't.

Since Yeakel likes froglegs so well, and has hunted them so long, he is recognized as "pretty much of an authority on them."

He says that camouflage "just comes natural to a frog."

When he comes out of the mud where he hibernated during the winter his skin is almost black. If he takes up abode around a drift his skin stays dark. If he gets among willows he'll get a dark green and if he lives among mosses he'll acquire a light green skin.

Like all good theories, though, this one isn't air-tight.

Last year Yeakel saw a blue frog, a big one, over in Pike county. He told his friends about it and they gave him the traditional fisherman's laugh.

So he spent considerable time watching this frog, just to prove that he was right about the color. The former disbelievers declared they had "never seen anything like that."

Yeakel can't explain why the frog was blue, since there wasn't anything blue anywhere around the latter's residence.

Kampsville Bank Bandit Will Go On Trial Monday

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Date for a second arraignment of Clifford Eugene Hubbard, 26, of Collinsville, accused Kampsville bank bandit, has been set for 10 a.m. Monday in Federal Court here.

An indictment on six counts of the federal bank robbing act was returned against Hubbard charging attempted robbery of the Kampsville bank May 1, which resulted in the death of two men.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Robert Oxtoby said four of the counts carry the death penalty.

At the first arraignment Federal Judge Charles Briggie refused to let Hubbard make a plea to the charges. He then appointed two members of the Sangamon county bar to defend him and advise him on his legal rights.

Defense attorneys for Hubbard have indicated they will plead innocent to all charges under the indictment. Oxtoby stated. Oxtoby indicated that the government will seek the death penalty.

Hubbard's alleged partner, Thomas Underwood, 26, of Washington Park, and Kampsville bank cashier Harry Waldheuser, 63, of Kampsville, were killed when the car they were in crashed into a culvert at 110 miles per hour in an attempt to flee a posse.

In the crash Hubbard and Waldheuser's wife, Lela, were seriously injured.

W. State Pavement Resolution Approved

At a meeting of the board of local improvements, composed of Mayor Ernest Hoagland, Alderman Allen Kelly and Superintendent of Highways Sam Pevy, held at the city hall Friday night a resolution was adopted to proceed with the paving of West State street from the west side of Church street to Webster avenue.

At the regular meeting of the city council next Monday an ordinance with an emergency clause will be introduced to proceed with the work.

If the ordinance is adopted it is hoped that bids on the project can be received about August 15. The improvement, which will cost approximately $96,000, calls for the laying of an asphalt pavement and the installation of a new street lighting system.

It is planned to widen the street on the north side in front of the Jacksonville high school to provide a place for loading and unloading students from buses without interfering with the regular traffic on the street.

According to plans an incandescent lighting system will be installed on the south side of the street because there are fewer trees along the thoroughfare on that side.

The lights will be mounted on 25 foot aluminum poles with an eight foot arm. The lights will be so arranged that the rays will cover the streets and sidewalks without glaring on to porches and into houses.

Most of the curbing will remain, but curbing that has been broken will be replaced.

The cost of the pavement will be financed from the motor fuel tax, plus an assessment against property owners along the street. Most of the expense, however, will be paid from the motor fuel tax.

Jersey Co. Barn Burns To Ground

JERSEYVILLE—A large barn on the farm owned by Mrs. Mary Cheney of Godfrey, Ill., located one mile north of the Bethel church in Jersey county, was burned to the ground about 9:15 p.m. Thursday, and all the contents were destroyed.

The blaze was discovered by a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brooks who are tenants on the farm when the barking of dogs attracted her attention, and upon investigation, she found smoke pouring from the barn.

The Jerseyville fire department was called, but the fire had gained such headway it was impossible to save any part of the barn, but the firemen were successful in preventing the spreading of the blaze to nearby outbuildings.

Thomas Fraser, brother-in-law of Mrs. Cheney, who manages the farm for her, had left the place about 8 o'clock, and there were no signs of fire at that time. About 200 bales of new hay had been stored in the barn several weeks ago, and it is believed the fire may have originated from spontaneous combustion or from some possible defect in the wiring of the barn, but the origin of the blaze could not be definitely determined.

The barn was a large structure and other additions had been made to it about three years ago. In addition to the hay, a corn planter and elevator and one hog were among the contents lost through the fire.

Mrs. Cheney was watching a fire at the Russell Shoe Store in Alton at the time her own property was burning in Jersey county, and it took some time to locate her and tell her of the loss.

Girl Scout News Of Morgan County Day Camp

Mrs. Fran Chumley, Camp Director, and Mrs. Ivorine Wilson, Camp Chairman, have just finished directing a very successful Day Camp for Morgan County. 175 Brownies rode the Trailway Buses that were loaned for this camp out to Camp Shagbark on Lake Jacksonville for four days this past week.

When the girls arrived each day they gathered around the flagpole on the shore of the lake and stood at attention while three of their companions served as color bearers and guards. The girls repeated the Pledge of Allegiance and Mimi Goodey, a Camp Counsellor, led the girls in singing. Many new Girl Scout songs were learned and will be enjoyed by the girls this winter at their troop meetings.

After announcements, the girls broke up into small unit groups of 16 with 2 adults and 1 program aide in charge of each unit. The 12 units were scattered through the woods and along the shores over the ten acres of land surrounding the Girl Scout cabin. The girls set up their units at their camp sites, made their rustic wash stands, made up their wood pile and built their fires, prepared their morning program and noon meal, followed by clean-up.

The girls brought sack lunches from home the first day; the second day the Brownies made apple salad, grilled hot dogs, and had buns and cookies for dessert. California hamburgers, dill pickles and cake completed their third noon meal and the 4th day was a group participation meal. Each unit cooked part of the meal and it was all served together. The units fixed tomato juice, baked beans, potato chips, cold meat sandwiches, dill pickle slices, carrot and celery sticks. Ice cream bars were served for dessert. Milk was served each day. These girls are in the 2nd, 3rd and 4th grade and besides building their own fire—did all their own food preparation and cooking.

Mrs. Ronda Hemphill, also a unit leader, was in charge of the nature program. She set up the hike schedules for the units and assigned certain things in the outdoors that the girls were to look for each day. Group sports and games made up the program for the girls that stayed in camp.

The Headquarters Staff, consisting of Fran Chumley, Ivorine Wilson, Billie Graunke, Mimi Goodey and Sue Hackett, had charge of the Handicraft program which consisted of working with clay, leather work, and craft strip, or boondoggling. The last day, the Junior Representatives gathered wild flowers and made corsages for each of their leaders. These were given out at the last ceremony.

Follow Schedule

After lunch each day, while the Program Aides told stories or sang songs with the girls during their rest period, the leaders met at the Cabin for a short staff meeting to go over plans for the next day. Each unit had a bulletin board which carried the important announcements for the day. It also carried the Kaper Chart for the day which divided the girls into (1) PACKERS, those who carry supplies, (2) PEARL DIVERS, those who prepare dish water and wash dishes, (3) COOKS, those who prepare the food and cook the meal, (4) HOPPERS, those who set table, get centerpiece, hop up at meals and clean up, (5) FIRE BUILDERS, those who gather wood, build fire and keep it going as needed. Each girl performed her duties for one day, then changed duties.

At 3 the girls broke up camp, took equipment back to Headquarters, and after the closing flag ceremony, climbed wearily into their bus, happy with the thought of their newly acquired skills.

Mrs. Perk Chumley, Neighborhood Chairman of Franklin School and leader of Brownie Troop No. 32, did an excellent job of organizing this camp and making things interesting for the girls at all times. Credit also goes to Mrs. Darrell Wilson, leader of Troop No. 16, who helped make out all menus, planned food quantities, and did all purchasing. These two women deserve great praise.

The Staff appreciates the many business establishments and individuals who donated material, time and service to make this a successful camping experience for the Morgan County Brownies. A word of appreciation to the following leaders, for without them, the camp could not have been held: Bernice Dods-worth, Anne Pevey, Elden Patterson, Helen Peters, Florence Lee Handy, Rhonda Hemphill, Nettie Calvin, May Essex, Dorothy Walker, Norma Crocker, Ruth DeLong, Alice Trent, Naomi DeRosear, Blanche Mentler, Charlotte Summers, Ethel Watson, Louise Coker, Dorothy Dissick, Irene Stone, Winifred McGuire, Mary Lois Helman, Ruth Walters, Ingeborg Schindler, Marie Pricke, Ruby Brummett, Mary Jane Mitchell, Lola Stubblefield, Elizabeth Tribble, Laverne Boruff, Alice Crank, Marjorie Choate, Jean Rammelkamp, Nina Cline, Jean Newman, Jerry Wombles, Louise Davis, Barbara Hewitt, Rita Clayton, Helen Vierra, Florence Lasley, Edna Greenler and Dorothy Farmer.

Public Library News Notes

For summer vacation reading most people find relaxation in light and entertaining fiction; consequently the Jacksonville Public Library has many new stories of this kind.

Some amusing situations are provided when Captain Ebbs is in command of his first passenger liner in "The Captain's Table," by Ostiere. Pursuit of females and dealing with voyagers who reveal themselves as shareholders in the shipping company keeps the captain in difficulty.

"An Alligator Named Daisy" by Terrot, is a gay romance in which Peter is duped into becoming the protesting keeper of a friend's abandoned pet and Moira, his sweetheart, becomes so attached to Daisy that it is a case of "love me, love my alligator."

A housewife keeps a journal of the summer months while juggling a hundred other different jobs with wit, grace and success in "The Dinner Party," by Gretchen Finletter, who is the daughter of Walter Damrosch and wife of the former Secretary of the Air Force.

Louise Dickinson Rich, in the delightful and humorous "Innocence Under the Elms," recalls her childhood with her sister, Alice, in Bridgewater, Mass., about the time of World War I.

Several other entertaining stories are "No Time For Sergeants," humorous war experiences by Hyman; "The Year the Yankees Lost the Pennant," a good baseball tale, by Wallon; and "Fit As a Filly," about a race horse, by Mason.

Reverend Terrence Tracey officiated at the double ring ceremony and Reverend John Cephanis was the celebrant of the nuptial.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, John I. Markille, wore a gown of white organdy trimmed in lace tiers. Her veil, an original design of French illusion, was attached to a small lace Juliet cap, and her bridal bouquet was a showered white orchid with which she carried a crystal rosary.

Attendants were Miss Lucille Hendershot, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and Miss Margaret Haugh, Springfield, as bridesmaid. They were gowned alike in white organdy over blue crystallette and carried ivory fans to which small white carnations were attached.

Charles Saxer of Murrayville was best man, Donald Agans of Jacksonville was groomsmen and Robert Schneider, Jacksonville, served as usher.

Mrs. Alta Eisch, Jacksonville, was organist. She played a short recital preceding the ceremony and accompanied the soloist, Frank Hart of Winchester, who sang "Paris Angelicus," Franck, and "Veni Jesu" by Cherubini. As the bride placed a bouquet on the Blessed Virgin's Altar, Mr. Hart sang, "On This Day O Beautiful Mother."

The wedding breakfast at Hotel Winchester was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's mother. Serving at the reception were Mrs. Donald Hanback, Chicago, Miss Rita Robinson, Springfield, Mrs. Lauren E. Coe, Springfield, Mrs. Elmo Waters and Mrs. William Wilsey, Winchester.

When the young couple departed on a wedding trip the bride was wearing a champagne colored dress with an orchid corsage. Following the honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Agans will be at home in Jacksonville.

Mrs. Agans, a graduate of Sacred Heart Academy and St. John's School of Nursing Education in Springfield, has been employed in the pediatrics department of Passavant Hospital in Jacksonville.

Mr. Agans, recently discharged from the United States Air Force, plans to enter Illinois College in the Fall.

Guests from out of town included, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Crawford, Kirkwood, Mo., Mrs. Loretta Hendershot, Mrs. Fernie Allison, Macomb, Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Hendershot, Pekin, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Hanks and son, Robert, Peoria, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Markille and daughter, Jeanne, Beardstown, Mr. and Mrs. Frances Hawk, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hawk, Granite City, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stowers, Mr. and Mrs. H. New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market stepped ahead this week with its accustomed vigor and registered its sixth straight weekly advance.

There were times when the market faltered, however, and some thought they could detect signs of hesitancy developing in the general upward trend.

The market's record, nonetheless, was clear — in the past 15 sessions of the current six-week advance, the market has hit 11 new record high marks as measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks.

The average closed Friday at $172.50, only 30 cents under its record high registered the previous day.

The five most active issues this week on the American Stock Exchange were Imperial Chemical Industries up 7-16 at 8 1/2 on 452,100 shares; Devon Leduc Oils up 1-16 at 2-16; Molybdenite of Canada up 3-16 at 2-16; Jupiter Oils up 3-16 at 2-16; and Reiter Foster up 1/4 at 1 3/4.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton off 2 3/4 at 14 1/2 on 228,000 shares; Sperry Rand "when issued" up 1/4 at 28; Allegheny Corp. up 1/2 at 10 1/2; Loew's up 1 at 23 1/2; and National Container up 1/2 at 20 1/4.

Hog, Lamb Prices Skitter In Wake Of Cattle Losses

CHICAGO (AP)—A mid-week break in hogs and lambs sent prices skittering in the wake of falling cattle values this week.

Three weeks of virtually uninterrupted rise pushed hogs day by day to new peaks going back to August. But setbacks started Wednesday and continued to the weekend when net losses on barrows and gilts amounted to 50 to 75 cents a hundred pounds.

Several factors combined to cause the turnaround. Hot weather in the East reduced demand for pork. The government's spring pig crop showed an increase of 9 per cent over a year ago.

In cattle the trend was mixed. Heavier weights of steers sank to their lowest prices in two years. Cows were steady to 50 cents off. But lightweight steers were steady to 50 cents higher, bulls were up 50 to 75 cents and vealers gained $1.00 to $3.00 altogether.

About 70 per cent of cattle arrivals were fed steers. Total receipts ran about 10 per cent less than a week earlier. They weighed around 5 per cent heavier than a year ago.

Dressed lamb prices were lower in wholesale markets following resistance at retail levels. This fed back to the live market even though supplies continued seasonally small. Losses amounted to $2.00 to $3.00 a hundred pounds for the week on lambs.

Stevenson's Son, Nancy Anderson Marry Saturday

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Miss Nancy Lewis Anderson and Adlai Ewing Stevenson Jr., were married at 5 p.m. Saturday.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Peter H. Pleune at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warwick McNafr Anderson.

Stevenson, 24, is the son of Adlai Ewing Stevenson of Libertyville, Ill., the 1952 Democratic nominee for President, and Mrs. Borden Stevenson of Chicago.

The 21-year-old bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. George Waldo Emerson, matron of honor, and Mrs. Charles Stedman Garland Jr., of New York City, bridesmaid.

Lt. Timothy R. Ives of Bloomington, Ill., the bridegroom's cousin, was the best man. Ushers were Army Pfc. Borden Stevenson and John Fell Stevenson, the bridegroom's brothers.

The couple will live in Cambridge, Mass., where he is a student at Harvard Law School, following a Canadian wedding trip. The bride wore her mother's wedding gown of ivory satin, trimmed with panels of heirloom rosepoint lace. She wore a head-dress of matching lace and carried a French bouquet of gardenias.

ILLINOIS WOMAN DIES, 6 INJURED AS CARS COLLIDE

JANESVILLE, Wis. (AP)—Mrs. Burno F. Kozlik, 42, of Chicago, was killed and six other persons injured today in a collision east of Janesville.

State police said automobiles driven by Mrs. Kozlik's husband and Harold Streit, 30, of Elgin, Ill., collided head-on on U.S. Route 14.

All of the injured were taken to Mercy Hospital in Janesville. They are Kozlik; his son, Ronald, 12; Streit; Edward Van Broeck, 32; Elgin; his wife, Betty, 29, and their son, Gerald, 5.

Doctors said Ronald Kozlik and Van Broeck are in critical condition. The others were reported as "fair."

Uncertainty Slows Grain Pit Moves OnBoard Of Trade

By LAWRENCE N. Eldred
CHICAGO (AP)—An ominous atmosphere of wait-and-see pervaded the grain pits on the Board of Trade this week. Would farmers Saturday vote a two-thirds majority in favor of production quotas on next year's wheat crop?

The question was uppermost for wheat traders. Operators in other grains felt it too.

Soybeans moved up and down in response to exports, soybean and meal action and weather. Beans were mixed at the end. Lard was weak as hog prices took a sudden downturn in midweek.

Compared with the previous week's closing prices, wheat finished 1 to 1 1/2 cents higher, corn was 1/4 lower to 1 1/2 higher, oats 1/4 lower to 1 1/2 higher, rye 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher and rye 1/4 higher. Soybeans were unevenly 1/4 higher to 2 cents lower while lard was 37 to 50 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Not until the last two sessions did sentiment change regarding the referendum in wheat. Traders anticipated lower support prices for the 1956 crop, regardless of the outcome of the voting, but the puzzle was in how much lower they might have to go.

If marketing quotas are approved the national average prop price will be $1.81 a bushel. That's 25 cents under this year's and 43 cents under last year's support level.

But if the government quota proposal is defeated the legal support price could fall to $1.19 a bushel, and that only to those farmers who stay within their acreage allotments.

Feed grains took some of the depressed attitude from wheat. Reasoning went this way: If wheat fell to a support price of $1.19, or even very far in that direction, it would be come a competitor with feed grains for livestock consumption.

DENTON, Ill. (AP)—The United Mine Workers union has notified the Franklin Hospital it was removed from the union's approved list earlier this week for "other than strictly professional reasons," officials of the hospital said today.

Members of the hospital's medical staff had demanded an explanation from the union as to why it closed the hospital to UMW members seeking hospitalization under the union's welfare and pension fund.

Josephine Roche of Washington, director of the union fund, offered no other explanation in a letter to the hospital.

The new hospital here, one of the best equipped in southern Illinois, has no contract with the UMW's District 50, as have hospitals in nearby West Frankfort and Christopher.

W. V. Lamont, administrator of the hospital, said the union's decision would injure the hospital financially but that it would continue to operate without fund patients.

A large number of persons in this coal mining area are UMW members.

Out-Of-Control Car Crushes Man

QUINCY, Ill. (AP)—An automobile being parked went out of control Saturday and ran along a crowded downtown sidewalk, crushing one man to death and injuring another.

The driver, Miss Florence Erke, 55, was taken to a hospital, suffering from shock.

Police Chief Ray Welsh said she was parking the 1953 model car when it ran onto the sidewalk and struck Charles Maloney, 58, crushing him against a parking meter.

A second pedestrian, Otis Lemmon, suffered minor injuries. Others scurried to safety as the auto clipped the fronts of two buildings before coming to a halt.

2 HURT IN FALL THROUGH BRIDGE

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Two men were seriously hurt today when they fell 75 feet through an opening in the McKinley bridge flooring and landed on railroad tracks.

The victims fell after getting out of a car to see if it had a flat tire. Workmen who have been installing new pavement on the bridge over the Mississippi River had left the opening.

Injured were Raymond Linder and Arthur O'Keefe, both of St. Louis. They were taken to City Hospital with head and other injuries.

Assembly Back To Work Tomorrow; Drives To End Session By June 30

powers of the local prosecutor. All have Senate approval.

The attorney general bills, stalled in committee, are considered almost certain to die. Sentiment for a hurryup Korean bonus apparently has cooled.

As in past sessions, the Broyles bills are having trouble getting through the House and probably will win or lose by a close margin. One of them requires loyalty oaths of many public employees, including school teachers and persons on the state payroll. The other would make membership in subversive organizations a felony and provide heavy penalties.

Identical proposals to limit the work week of downstate firemen to 56 hours have passed both chambers. To reach the governor, one or the other must clear the opposite assembly branch.

The administration plan for a steep boost in state payments to local school districts is waiting for a final vote of approval by the Senate, which also will make final disposition of a House-approved measure for a 75 cents an hour minimum wage law.

Two other proposals important to labor are on the last lap of the legislative journey in the House. They are agreed bills for more liberal benefits under the unemployment compensation and workmen's compensation laws.

Others Believe Russians Just Trigger-Happy

Statements by the pilot of the stricken plane and by Lt. Gen. Joseph H. Atkinson, commander of all armed forces in Alaska, said the attack was unwarranted.

Atkinson said the twin-engine Neptune patrol plane, armed only with a single 50 caliber machine gun and flying about 210 miles per hour, was over international waters between Alaska and Siberia and "was not headed toward Soviet territory."

The general said the plane "committed no provocative act nor did the crew display any hostile intent." Three crew members were injured by fragments from the Russian guns, while four others were burned when the plane burst into flames in a crash landing on remote St. Lawrence Island, 100 miles from Siberia and 200 miles from Nome, Alaska. Four other crew members were unhurt.

The pilot, Lt. Richard H. Fischer of Pittsburgh, Pa., said the Russian attack came without warning and there was no time for the Navy plane to fire back.

Molotov, in San Francisco for United Nations anniversary ceremonies, told a news conference Saturday he still had no information on the incident, but would advise Dulles as soon as he hears from Moscow.

Saturday Big Day In Home Where Star Was Reared

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Saturday was a busy day in the John B. Kelly household, where film star Grace Kelly was reared.

Grace's sister, Elizabeth, was married this morning to Donald Caldwell Levine. Grace and another sister, Mrs. George L. (Peggy) Davis Jr., were maids of honor. The ceremony took place at St. Bridget's Roman Catholic Church, East Falls.

At the same time, the proud parents were accepting congratulations on the birth of a granddaughter.

The birth was to Mr. and Mrs. John B. Kelly Jr., at University Hospital. The newborn is Ann Freeman Kelly and she weighs 6 pounds, 7 ounces.

Her mother is the former Mary Freeman of Washington, D. C., holder of a number of national backstroke swimming titles.

The husband is a sculling star whose victories include two triumphs in the Diamond Challenge sculls of the Royal Henley Regatta on the Thames and a number of American and Canadian championships.

MONMOUTH ADDS TO STAKES

OCEANPORT, N. J. (AP)—Monmouth Park will present the richest stakes program in its history during its 50-day meeting from June 11 to Aug. 8.

Topping the list of 20 feature events is the Monmouth Handicap. This year it will carry an added value of $75,000—an increase of $25,000 over 1954. Next in line with $50,000 in added monies is the historic Monmouth Oaks, which annually brings together the country's leading fillies.

Monmouth Park's stake fixtures have been increased by $37,500 over their value last year.

Quick Action By Alert Clerk Nips $500,000 Robbery

NEW YORK (AP)—Two gunmen staged a sensational jewelry store holdup in the heart of Manhattan Saturday. Within seconds, however, the alertness of a clerk made the robbery a sensational fop.

One bandit threw a pouch containing a fortune in gems to the street and fled. The other drew a gun but dropped it meekly when a policeman told him:

"Another move and you're dead." The robber didn't know it at the time, but the officer, Patrolman Arthur Fegan, is the Police Department's pistol champion.

The captured robber was identified by officers as Herman Gross, 59, of Brooklyn. He said he already had a record of three crimes. Police did not say whether they knew the other's identity.

The stickup took place before the morning opening of the F. Stahl store at Madison Avenue and 56th street. One bandit was clad as a mailman and induced Albert Hartog, 25, son of store operator Jacob S. Hartog, to open the door. Then both men shoved in at gun point.

After binding young Hartog, the robbers scooped trays of jewelry into their "mail" pouch and left. Seconds later store clerk Harold Block, arriving for work, saw the door open and sounded an alarm.

Two officers came running and managed to overtake one suspect not far away. He had about $15,000 in gems in his pockets. The other gems, estimated by Jacob Hartog to be worth $500,000 in the retail market, were found in the abandoned pouch.

To Study Yugoslav Soviet Relations Before Voting Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Sparkman D-Ala. said Saturday a Foreign Relations subcommittee he heads will take another look at Yugoslav-Russian relations before the Senate appropriates new money for foreign aid.

He said the European Affairs subcommittee will take "full testimony" from State Department officials on the real significance of a visit by Kremlin leaders to Yugoslavia which ended in agreement on a joint communique June 2.

The State Department has expressed the view that Yugoslav Marshal Tito apparently has maintained his independence of Russia despite the meeting.

Sparkman spoke out in an interview after the House Foreign Affairs Committee called for firmer American supervision of aid to Yugoslavia. The committee said Tito's government has "not been fully cooperative" in permitting American observers to see how it uses arms shipped under the aid program.

The House group said that unless a stronger stand is taken, specific legislative curbs will be placed on future military aid to Yugoslavia.

Neither the Senate nor the House Foreign Affairs Committee reduced the 400 million dollars for economic aid and unspecified amounts for military aid to Yugoslavia contained in the authorization bill. The House itself will act on the measure next week.

Youth, 19, Admits Leading Gang In 'Revenge Slaying'

NEW YORK (AP)—An undersized youth known as "Little Caesar" admitted Saturday, police reported, that he presided at a "council of war" that led to the revenge gang slaying of a 16-year-old boy.

"It do get dog," detectives quoted Victor Diaz, 19, as saying. "We must get revenge. We don't think of the law. We don't try to kill. We just try to inflict injury."

Diaz, described as leader of a Harlem gang called the Seminoles, was arrested Saturday at his Bronx tenement home.

He is accused of masterminding the slaying Thursday night of Luis Feliciano, 17, a grocery delivery boy and member of the rival Viceroyes.

Feliciano was shot down with a sawed-off rifle while at work in an East Harlem grocery.

Louis "Dillinger" Ramirez, 16, is accused of being the trigger man in the killing.

Diaz, who is only 5 feet tall and weighs about 130, told police he called the war council meeting after learning that a member of his gang had been stabbed by one of the Viceroyes.

Water Tower Dads At Nichols Park Tonight

The Alton Water Tower Dad's softball team tangles with the Murraville Eagles tonight in what should be one of the top softball attractions at the Nichols Park field this year.

The Alton nine is the winner of the 1954 Jacksonville Invitational Tournament and is repeatedly one of the best teams in this part of Illinois.

The Murraville nine is one of the local A league clubs and has been quite successful in league competition this season. The Eagles sport two fine hurlers in Jack McNeely and Richie Dixon.

This feature game is scheduled for 8:45 following a Pony League tilt between two of the local boy's teams.

All proceeds from these games go into a fund to improve the local park.

Wally Osterkorn Retires From Pro Basketball

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Wally Osterkorn, 36, six-foot five-inch, former University of Illinois case star, said he was leaving the Nats to accept a position in industrial sales.

He was operated on for removal of a calcium formation in his right thigh last season and played only 10 contests during the regular campaign.

But he returned for limited duty in the playoffs and the championship series and provided a number of key plays that sparked the club in its title drive.

In his 19 games last season he scored 56 points. The previous year he tallied 615 for the Nats in 70 games.

He said the thigh injury was the major reason he decided to quit pro basketball. A native of Chicago, he now has a home in Syracuse.

Syracuse fans gave him a "Wally Osterkorn Night" last season when his home was destroyed by fire and he was forced to undergo the operation in a successive pair of bad breaks.

LONG SHOT BETTORS HAVE FIELD DAY

NEW YORK (AP)—Long shot bettors had a field day at Aqueduct Saturday when three lightly-regarded horses ran 1-2-3 in the third race.

Our Beauty won by a length over Lea Ronli and paid his supporters $74.40, $33.60 and $18.90 across the board. Lea Ronli was worth $27.60 and $17.30 for second place, and Merman, beaten a nose for second place, paid $24 to show.

The favored Kris Kringle ran 10th in a field of 13.

Rookie infielder Hector Lopez of the Kansas City Athletics is a native of Colon, Panama. Last season he played for Ottawa in the International League.

Yanks May Have 'Sleeper' On Staff In Tom Sturdivant

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—One reason Casey Stengel refused to be stamped into a five-away trade for another starting pitcher is because he felt he had a "sleeper" on his New York Yankee staff.

He's Tom Sturdivant, the young man who was brought along for the ride but earned himself a place in the bullpen while other pitching prospects, much more highly regarded, were dropped off at various way stations.

Tom was the low man on the totem pole when he arrived at St. Petersburg, Fla., for spring inspection with an 8-9 record with Kansas City in the American Assn. last year. He proceeded, however, to win the respect of Stengel and pitching coach Jim Turner, allowing no earned runs in 11 1/3 innings, spread over four games, in Florida exhibitions.

Today, after 16 championship appearances, all in relief, the 26-year-old right-hander from Oklahoma is ready for a shot in a starting role. Only the splendid showing of rookie Johnny Kucks and the fine comeback by veteran Tommy Byrne has postponed Sturdivant's starting debut. But with numerous doubleheaders on tap, Tom is expected to get his opportunity in the near future. In 36 innings, he has yielded only 18 hits, walking 27 and striking out 28. His won-lost record is 1-2.

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs turned three straight two-run scoring spurts into a 6-4 victory over Pittsburgh before 12,181 here Saturday.

Warren Hacker pitched the route for the eighth time this season to gain his eighth payoff. The Cubs overcame a 3-0 deficit to hand Pittsburgh its sixth straight loss.

Pittsburgh scored once in the second on Johnny O'Brien's single, and got two more in the third on Tom Saffell's single and stolen base, Dick Cole's triple and Jerry Lynch's sacrifice fly.

Lynch hit his third homer to open the sixth for the Pirates' last run, and the losers' last hit off Hacker.

Walker Cooper's fourth homer launched the Chicago scoring in the third. Hacker's triple and Eddie Miksis' single accounted for the second run off starter and loser Dick Littlefield.

Two walks, Hacker's single and Miksis' second safety were good for Chicago's third and fourth runs in the fourth as Ron Kline replaced the sidelined Littlefield.

Another walk and the first of Dick Groat's two errors preceded Dick Fonydy's triple in the fifth for the winners' final pair of runs.

Mark-Ye-Well Wins At Arlington

CHICAGO (AP)—Calumet Farm's Mark-Ye-Well rushed to a nose victory Saturday in the $28,025 Laurens Armour Memorial Handicap before 25,954 at Arlington Park.

Mark-Ye-Well came up from the middle of the ten-horse field in the one-mile and a furlong test to beat out Wise Margin. Third was Hasseyampa.

Ridden by Dave Edb, Mark-Ye-Well returned $11.80, $7.60 and $5.20.

Wise Margin paid $6.20 and $4.60 and Hasseyampa's show price was $4.80.

America's Chances In '56 Olympics Looking Better

By TED SMITH

NEW YORK (AP)—There is a wave of optimism in American sports circles over our prospects in the 1956 Olympic games at Melbourne as the result of one record-breaking performance after another the last few months.

The United States, it is now clear, is ready for the Russian challenge. In fact, the Soviets may have had trouble in matching their performances at Helsinki in 1952 when the U. S. A. won the unofficial team title 614 points to 533, and took 14 first in track and field against none for the Russians.

Here are some of the amazing marks of this spring:

Jim Golliday, Northwestern, tied the world record of .09.3 in the 100-yard dash and unless his leg bothers him again looks like a winner in the sprints.

Lou Jones of Manhattan College broke the world record of 400 meters at the Pan-American games with 1:45.4 and Jim Lea of Southern California was at his shoulder, with 1:47.5, and Wes Santee, the talkative Kansan, with 1:48.5, have bettered the world record for the half mile. Tom Courtney of Fordham and Arnold Sowell of Pittsburgh have cracked 1:50.

Roselyn Range, with 26 feet 4 inches, and John Bennett, ex-Marquette, with 26:34, both from the armed services, became the second pair in world track annals to exceed 26 feet in the broad jump in one meet. They did it at the Pan-American games.

Bud Held, formerly of Stanford, bettered the world record in the javelin with a toss of 268 feet 21 inches.

Ernie Shelton of USC is crowding 7 feet consistently in the high jump.

Don Bragg of Villanova did 15 feet 1 inch in the NCAA pole vault to give the U.S.A. another 15-footer along with Bob Richards and Don Laz.

Active and in top form are two world record holders in the weights: Fortune Gordien, discus, and Parry O'Brien, shot put. Backing them up is Sim Iness, Olympic discus champion.

With a count of two balls and no strikes on Gus Zernial, leading off the A's eleventh plate umpire Larry Napp suspended play for the second time during the afternoon. Then, four minutes later, he declared it all off.

All records count in the official American League averages, but the game will be replayed upon a subsequent visit of the Athletics to Baltimore.

The game went into extra innings when Baltimore's Tommy Gastall scored from third on Hoot Evers' ninth-inning pinch double.

I've Got My Stuff Back, Says Konstanty

By BARD LINDEMAN

NEW YORK (AP)—"I have my stuff almost all back," Jim Konstanty, an educated, clear-thinking student of the science of baseball throwing, was speaking smartly about the game, his problems and it was all good listening.

"I don't go for that glamour stuff of games won and lost. I'm a relief pitcher."

Friday night in relief, Konstanty put the Cleveland Indians down hard over two innings and was a winner when Irv Noren homered in the bottom of the 10th inning. The 24 New York Yankee victory was Konstanty's fifth. He's saved 11 games and his earned run average is 0.88.

In 1950 the strapping right-hander set a major league relief record by pitching in 74 ball games for the Philadelphia Phillies. He finished 64 of these and had a 16-7 record with a 2.66 ERA. Off this great season—a pennant winner—he was voted the league's Most Valuable Player.

In the next three summers Konstanty was not the same big-striding confident fireman and he won only 23 games, losing 24. The Yankees bought him last August.

"For various reasons I lost my stuff," was the way Jim said it and that was all he said.

"I keep a record on myself—innings pitched, hits, runs, walks, strikeouts. Everything you'd be interested in if you were a pitcher," he said.

"This way I have a check on myself," he concluded.

Pair Of Hurlers Beat Up Scribe

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Two rookie pitchers were arrested today on charges of assaulting a sports writer in a tavern.

The darkest of dark horses to emerge with the coveted crown realizes, "The toughest job lies ahead—the job of being a good champion."

The tall, handsome Iowan now plans to set out in that direction with a return to the pro circuit, possibly in the St. Paul Open July 7. He presently is engaged in personal appearances and exhibitions.

It was steadfast faith in himself that carried Fleck to the top. After five years of playing just the winter circuit, he was making his first full winter-summer pro tour when he was singled out for fame.

Fleck's "Open" road has been hard. Starting as a caddy, he served most of his 15 years in the club professional's category. He estimates he is "five to 10 thousand rounds" behind most of the big time golfers.

Allen L. Gelberger of Santa Barbara, Calif., will be one of the favorites in the USGA Junior amateur golf championship to be held at Wolf Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 3-6. He was runnerup last year.

'GARDEN SPOT' FOR RACING

Pictured above are three "C" Hydros running exceptionally close in the race of June 7, 1953 on Lake Mauvaisterre. Boats racing in this class, will be the fastest to race here today with exception of those in the free-for-all or final race where there are no limitations as to size of boats or horsepower of motors. The "C" Hydros are powered with 22 h.p. motors and speed ranges 55 to 65 m.p.h. In race shown here, first heat was won by Norval Wynn, Danville, in his boat V-7. The second heat winner was Harold Hamilton, LeMay, Mo., in his boat Y-28. The annual race event was not held here in 1954 due to the low lake level.

Rain Calls Off A's, Orioles Game With Score Tied

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles and Kansas City Athletics battled to a 3-3 tie Saturday in a drawn-out contest finally called off because of rain with no one out in the first half of the eleventh inning.

With a count of two balls and no strikes on Gus Zernial, leading off the A's eleventh plate umpire Larry Napp suspended play for the second time during the afternoon. Then, four minutes later, he declared it all off.

All records count in the official American League averages, but the game will be replayed upon a subsequent visit of the Athletics to Baltimore.

Gromek Hurls Tigers To 4-0 Win Over Nats

WASHINGTON (AP)—Steve Gromek, veteran Detroit right-hander, inflicted an eighth straight loss on Washington Saturday as the Tigers defeated the Senators, 4-0.

Gromek gave up only four hits and allowed only one runner to reach second base as he notched his seventh victory.

The Senators suffered their 15th setback in 16 games and their third shutout in four games while compiling their longest losing streak of the season.

Four straight hits off Ted Abernathy, rookie right-hander making his first major league start, fetched the Tigers three runs in the second inning. Jim Delsing doubled across Earl Torgeson and Ray Boone, both of whom had singled, and Delsing scored on Frank House's single.

The Tigers scored their final run in the sixth inning when Al Kline tripped to center and scored after Torgeson fled to Johnny Groth in center.

Jack Fleck Realizes His Toughest Job Lies Ahead--Being Good Champ

By JACK DONOVAN

DAVENPORT, Iowa (AP)—Jack Fleck, the young municipal course professional, has joined the parade of United States open golf champions but can prove his place?

Iron-nerved and with no important golf titles to show for 15 years in the pro ranks, Fleck burst from obscurity to win the Open from Ben Hogan in a spectacular finish.

The darkest of dark horses to emerge with the coveted crown realizes, "The toughest job lies ahead—the job of being a good champion."

The tall, handsome Iowan now plans to set out in that direction with a return to the pro circuit, possibly in the St. Paul Open July 7. He presently is engaged in personal appearances and exhibitions.

It was steadfast faith in himself that carried Fleck to the top. After five years of playing just the winter circuit, he was making his first full winter-summer pro tour when he was singled out for fame.

Fleck's "Open" road has been hard. Starting as a caddy, he served most of his 15 years in the club professional's category. He estimates he is "five to 10 thousand rounds" behind most of the big time golfers.

During a practice round over the

It was only his third attempt at the National Open Championship but he had 2,000 miles from his Davenport home to San Francisco, a lonely auto drive he made in 40 hours, to reflect on his future in golf.

Born in nearby Bettendorf 32 years ago, the third of five children, Jack was reared in a Lutheran home.

"He would miss meals in order to caddy," a sister recalls. "He used to worry mother because he sometimes slept at the country club."

Jack's father, now a widower, "was always chasing out to the course" to bring him home, the sister remembers.

Fleck neither drinks nor smokes. This is attributed by his sister to their mother's teachings.

Fleck's winning the Open might not be as surprising as it first appears. Playing only the winter circuit until this past year, he was a money winner in 12 of the last 15 big tournaments he entered. He also averaged 71.21 strokes per round.

Jack plays with his head as well as heart and nerve. His endless attention to detail figured in his open victory.

During a practice round over the Olympic Club course he decided the narrow 18th fairway was more suitable for a spoon shot off the tee than a driver.

Coming into the deciding 18th hole during the tense playoff, Hogan lured the driver shot that fell in the hope Fleck, who had couldn't recover. Fleck, who had done the same thing in practice, used the spoon for a safe shot.

Jack's attractive 26-year-old wife, Lynn, (The former Lynn Burnsday of Chicago) recalls that her husband has played some of his best golf under trying conditions.

"He was 50th in the San Diego Open and then shot a 71 in the pouring rain to finish 21st," she proudly relates.

However, Mrs. Fleck who manages the Credit Island course here so Jack can tour, didn't always bubble over with confidence.

As late as 1953, when the Flecks still were in the red from Jack's winter circuit trips, Lynn says, "I didn't think he would make it."

"But I didn't want Jack ever to have to regret that he might have been a champion, so I insisted that he play to get that chance. I'm happy that I made that decision."

50 Speedsters Will Participate At 1:30 On Lake Mauvaisterre

Some fifty outboard speedsters will race a total of 30 miles in 12 races at the Mid-States racing association's annual event sponsored by the Jacksonville Boat Club on Lake Mauvaisterre this afternoon at 1:30 p.m. (C.D.T.). Each race will be 5 laps on a half mile course.

The classes into which the outboards will be divided are as follows: "A" Hydro; "B" Service and Hydro; "C" Service and Hydro and a Free-for-All composed of anyone in any class who wishes to participate.

In order that fans might better understand the races, the Jacksonville Boat Club has released the following data on the types of craft that will race. "Hydro" (short for Hydroplane) boats are usually oblong, flat-type boats with a step or steps, located toward the rear on the bottom side of the craft and extremely fast on a straight-away but slip outwardly in turns. "Service" type boats are V or round-type bottom boats and are usually 9 1/2 to 12 1/2 feet in length and are much better in the turns but not as fast on the straight-away as the Hydros.

Facts for the Spectators

Class "A" Hydros are powered with motors through 7 1/2 H.P. Speed ranges 35 to 45 m.p.h. Class "B" Service and Hydro boats are powered with motors 10 through 16 1/2 h.p. and Service boats average 40 to 50 m.p.h. while the Hydros range 45 to 55 m.p.h. Class "C" Service and Hydro boats run with 22 h.p. motors and their speeds range 50 to 65 m.p.h. In the Free-for-All race, speeds will range from 60 to 75 m.p.h. since there is no limit on restriction on horsepower or boats. Variation of speeds is due to size of motors, type and weight of boats they are pushing, as well as how efficient the job of "sousingup" the motor has been done.

Five minutes before each race a warning gun is fired and a red flag is raised on the judge's stand. This is the notice to the drivers to get out on the course. At the end of four minutes a second gun is fired, known as the "one-minute-gun", which is notice to the drivers that the race will start in exactly 60 seconds. At this time a white flag is raised and the red flag lowered, and simultaneously the large clock on the judge's stand starts ticking off the 60 breathless seconds.

The drivers must deploy their boats so as to hit the starting line at the exact moment this one-minute period elapses. If they are late, somebody gets "the jump" on them, and long leads in boat racing are difficult to overcome. If the start is false or bad the red flag is again raised and a re-start is called for. If a driver is over anxious and is over the starting line he is disqualified that heat but may participate in the next one. The checked flag indicates the finishing of the race.

NCAA Golf Meet All Tied Up After First 18 Holes

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Joe Campbell of Purdue and Johnny Garrett of Rice Institute finished all-square at the end of the first half of their 36-hole national collegiate golf tournament finals Saturday.

Campbell, 19-year-old sophomore from Anderson, Ind., rallied to win two of the last three holes to square the match.

A second 18-hole match will be played tomorrow to round out the finals.

Garrett moved into the finals with a grueling 1-70, 19-hole victory over Rex Baxter, University of Houston sophomore.

Campbell disposed of Florida's Pat Schwab, 6 and 4, in the morning.

The semi-finals matches in the morning were played in rain which made the course soggy and tricky, but the sun burst through in the afternoon for all but the last three holes.

Hammer Takes Second Base Lead

CHICAGO (AP)—Granny Hammer of the Philadelphia Phils Saturday captured the second base lead in the National League voting of the All-Star poll.

Hammer moved more than 12,000 votes ahead of Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals as the balloting headed towards the two million mark.

The poll's individual lead also changed hands. Catcher Yogi Berra of the New York Yankees passed catcher Roy Campanella of the Brooklyn Dodgers by 3,193 votes.

Bill Cantrell Winner In Detroit Speedway Regatta

DETROIT (AP) — Bill Cantrell drove his Gale IV to victory Saturday in the unlimited class of the Detroit Memorial Speedboat Regatta as five boats crashed in the blinding spray of the first heat and a driver in a smaller class was killed in a second collision.

The fatality was the first in the long history of speedboating on the Detroit River. Lloyd Maddock, 51, of Pontiac, Mich., died almost immediately after a crash of Holiday, which he was driving, and Little Audrey, driven by Harry Vogel of Dearborn, Mich., in the 135-cubic-inch class. Vogel was injured seriously.

Cantrell swept to victory in the first 15-mile heat in an average time of 93.729 miles per hour and also capped the second heat with a 92.028 m.p.h. average.

Two drivers were injured slightly in the first heat crash.

Miss Cadillac, My Sweetie, Short Circuit and Canada's Miss Superstest were forced out of the race. Tempo VI, Guy Lombardo's new boat, also was involved but not damaged.

Jack Ban, My Sweetie's pilot, was taken to a hospital for leg X-rays. Chuck Thompson, Short Circuit's driver, received hospital treatment for face cuts.

Mike Souhak Leads Western Open Golf

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Massive Mike Souhak, Durham, N. C., pounded his way to the lead in the third round of the Western Open Golf championship Saturday with a 5-under-par 32-35-67.

With his 69-69-138 for the first two rounds, his total was 205. Souhak, an ex-pro football player, held a three-stroke margin over his partners in a threesome Saturday, Ralph Blomquist, Glendale, Calif., and Gene Littler, Palm Springs, Calif.

Blomquist matched Souhak's 32-35, while Littler, a former national amateur champion, got a 33-36-69. Blomquist, a dark horse in this open, had a 69-71-140 and Littler 69-70-139 for the first 36 holes.

Sowell Wins AAU Half Mile

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Arnold Sowell of Pittsburgh University shot in front at the start and stayed there all the way to win the National AAU half mile championship Saturday in AAU record time of 1 minute, 47.6 seconds.

Sowell's time bettered the existing world record of 1:48.6, but Lon Spurrier of the Air Force, who ran fifth Saturday, has a mark of 1:47.5 up for certification.

Charles Jenkins of Villanova, the IC-4A champion, swept to victory in the 440-yard dash in 46.7. Rod Richard flashed to an AAU record-breaking 21 second victory in the 220-yard dash.

The United States Amateur Baseball Federation team will play 31 games in South Africa from Nov. 17 to Feb. 7.

Gene Readette, Ex-Army Corporal, Cops Illinois Amateur Golf Championship

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Gene Readette of Rockford, a 22-year-old ex-Army corporal playing in his first tournament, won the Illinois amateur golf championship Saturday with a 2 and 1 victory over seasoned George Victor of Golf, Ill.

Both finalists showed the pressure of the title showdown, especially through erratic putting. Each was 10 over par for the 35 holes needed to decide the issue.

But Readette did the better job of scrambling from trouble.

The new champion seized a two-hole lead in the morning 18 and never fell behind during the afternoon. However, a show of sportsmanship on Readette's part enabled tournament veteran Victor to even the match at a crucial stage.

After Victor won the 23rd hole with a par 4, he was only one down.

On the par 5 24th, Readette's third shot went into the fringe of the green on the far side. As he prepared to chip on, his ball moved forward. Neither the officials nor Victor noticed, but Readette promptly reported one stroke and lost the hole to Victor's par.

The poutful Rockford swing-

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Konstanty, 38-year-old relief man, stopped Cleveland for the second straight day Saturday as Bob Cerv's seventh-inning pinch single enabled the New York Yankees to make it two in a row over the Tribe, 3-2. The defeat dropped the third-place Indians six full games behind the leading Yanks.

Cerv's single, following Andy Carey's leadoff double against Art Houtteman, broke a 2-2 tie. Yogi Berra's 14th homer with Gil McDougald on second base in the sixth had brought the Yanks up even with the Indians, who held a 2-0 lead on AL Smith's 12th homer with Bobby Avila on base in the fifth of the sixth.

Konstanty was called from the bullpen by manager Casey Stengel when starter Eddie Lopat complained that something was wrong with the index finger of his left hand as he warmed up for the seventh. It developed that Lopat's finger was becoming tender although no blister had appeared.

The veteran reliever, who pitched the Philadelphia Phillies to the National League flag in 1950, retired the Tribe in order in the seventh and ninth. But he had deep trouble in the eighth.

Avila walked on four pitches to open the Cleveland eighth and Smith followed with a double, his fourth hit of the afternoon, Avila stopping at third. Then bespectacled Jim went to work.

Dave Philley grounded to Bill Skowron at first and the runners held. Al Rosen popped to Carey near home plate. After Larry Doby was passed intentionally to load the bases, pinch hitter Dale Mitchell grounded to McDougald.

Konstanty held the Indians Friday night after Johnny Kucks had been removed for a pinchhitter. CLEVELAND AB R H O A

Brooks Capture 50th Win, Whip Braves 5-3

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Brooklyn's Don Newcombe completed the circle this afternoon when his 5-3 victory over the Milwaukee Braves made him the first pitcher in the majors to whip every opponent this season.

However, he needed help from Karl Spooner to get the final out. The high stepping Dodgers thus reached their 50th victory, a point they didn't reach last year until July 10th.

The Braves' defeat let the Chicago Cubs, the only team to beat Newcombe this year, get back into second place by virtue of their 6-4 verdict over Pittsburgh. Milwaukee dipped down to third, one game behind the Cubs and 14 in back of Brooklyn.

Gene Conley, trying for his 10th victory, was lifted after a liner off Newcombe's bat hit him on his pitching arm just above the elbow in the fifth inning. Conley finished the frame but was relieved then and a trainer said he suffered a bruise.

Newcombe, who continued as a threat at bat with three for four, gave up 10 Milwaukee hits. Spooner came in and put a called third strike past Bill Bruton for the final out after singles by Bobby Thomson, Del Crandall and pinch batter Andy Pafko had given the Braves their third run.

Backed by the Chicago Democratic organization would be a powerful aid to a candidate's chances.

Daley, already has named Stevenson as his choice for the nomination in welcoming the delegates. Daley called the Republicans a party of "big business." He asserted they have failed to introduce a progressive measure in three years of power.

Michael J. Howlett, campaign manager for Sen. Douglas in 1954, criticized the handling by Gov. Stratton's administration of the toll road program. As a result of this program, he said, Illinois is ready for "another house-cleaning."

The major league record for most grand slam home runs was set by Lou Gehrig of the Yankees who hit 23 from 1927 through 1938.

And then there were two Cardinals fans discussing the current race. They agreed on one thing. Both were thankful for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Freed Austrians Report Yank In Russ Slave Camp

By ERIC WAHA
WIENER NEUSTADT, Austria (AP)—The disappearance of an American soldier four years ago was cleared up Saturday. Austrians in a group of 188 returning from imprisonment in Russia said they had seen him among 16 Americans in Soviet labor camps.

The soldier is Sidney Ray Sparks, 23, of Tennille, Ga., a U.S. Army private who escaped from a West Berlin guardhouse with two other privates in 1951. Later the three were reported to have sought political asylum in Communist-controlled East Germany.

Sparks told the Austrians he was arrested by the Russians in East Berlin in 1951. Sick but still forced to work for the Soviets in the Eastern European Russia, Sparks tearfully asked the Austrians to tell American authorities of his whereabouts.

In Tennille, Sparks' ailing mother, Mrs. J. W. Gladin, was overjoyed at the news from her son. She exclaimed: "Oh God, it's wonderful. I love my baby. I do hope they will turn him loose."

In Berlin, a U.S. Army spokesman said Sparks, at the time he disappeared, faced a general court-martial on charges of being absent without leave, stealing money and assaulting a cab driver.

Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago did not openly endorse Stevenson, but said:

"Where the Republican party turns to Herbert Hoover for its inspiration, the Democrats turn to men like Adlai Stevenson and to the people for inspiration."

"In 1956 Chicago will be host to the Democratic national convention."

Backing by the Chicago Democratic organization would be a powerful aid to a candidate's chances.

Protect Morgan Co. By Giving Blood July 1; Unit Here 1 Day Only

Just preceding the long Fourth of July holiday, when authorities of national safety are predicting the hundreds of accidental deaths and accidents, the Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit Morgan county for one day in an effort to obtain 175 pints of blood. It seems little enough to ask that only 175 people give a pint of blood to keep Morgan county on the credit side of the Blood Program. Our neighboring Sangamon county does not have this program and its residents must pay for the blood needed in accident and sickness cases, plus the cost of administration.

The lowest price, according to recent records, charged for a pint of blood in Illinois from a reputable hospital was $25, not counting the cost of administration. In Morgan county this cost for the blood is not charged because Morgan County is on the Red Cross Blood Program. The only charge made is for the cost of administration. Not only is there the advantage of receiving this consideration in Morgan county but any resident of the county will receive blood free of charge (plus the cost of administration) at any accredited hospital in the United States.

E. St. Louis Club Blaze May Be Tied To Slaying

EAST ST. LOUIS (AP)—A night club was destroyed by fire early today and authorities were trying to determine whether the fire was related in any way to events which led to a gang-style slaying earlier this week.

The Stork Club on Highway 66-67 a mile north of here was swept by flames discovered about 3:30 a. m. while some 100 customers were in the place. No one was injured.

William H. Welch, operator of the place, formerly known as the Torch Club, said he was a business associate of Birney T. Haver, Jr. Haver and Kenneth Mueller, targets of assassins' bullets a little more than a month ago, are sought for questioning in the slaying of J. Fred Koenig whose bullet-pierced body was found in the trunk of his parked car here Wednesday. The two men were friends of Koenig, convicted black marketeer and one-time St. Louis politician.

Mueller was slightly wounded in the earlier shooting incident. Before Haver and Mueller disappeared, shortly after Koenig's slaying came to light, they had told police they were unable to identify their assassins. Welch said he didn't know Mueller.

Welch attributed today's fire to defective wiring. He estimated damage at $25,000 to $30,000. The club was reported to have been owned a number of years ago by Frank (Buster) Wortman, reputed racketeer boss in this area who also is sought for questioning in the slaying of Koenig. Welch said Wortman has no interest in the night club now.

Name Park Ridge Miss Girls State Governor In Saturday Election

A 17-year-old high school senior from Park Ridge was elected governor of Illinois Girls State Saturday as the Nationalist party maintained its supremacy in the government of the imaginary "49th state."

Marcia Kittelsen of 232 Merrill street, Park Ridge, took the governor's chair in inauguration ceremonies Saturday night in MacMurray College's Annie Merner chapel. She will rule Girls State for the remaining days this summer and will return next year to head the government until another election names her successor.

Marcia, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L. H. Kittelsen, will be a senior in Maine Township High School this fall and is sponsored at Girls State by the Mel Tierney unit of the American Legion Auxiliary. She defeated Federalist candidate Mary Lou Rector of Hoopes for the governorship.

Other state officials and officers of the six "counties" were also named in Saturday's election, the big event of Girls State.

In the state's first general election Thursday, the Nationalist party gained control of both houses of the General Assembly by slim margins.

Nationalists On Top
And Saturday, the Nationalists gained a great majority of the state offices and held the ascendancy in all county contests save those for the six county superintendents of schools. Four of the six counties named Federalist candidates to this position.

Elected to state offices Saturday were (N—Nationalist; F—Federalist):
Joan Cutler of Peoria (N), lieutenant governor; Sally Berry of Wheaton (N), secretary of state; Jane Armstrong of Tuscola (F), auditor of public accounts; Sharon Williams of Madison (N), state treasurer; Sheila Anderson of Rockford (N), superintendent of public instruction; and Judie Donaldson of Glen Ellyn (N), attorney general.

Chosen county judges were Marilyn Sudds of Hazel Crest (N); Nancy Barnett of Oak Park (N); Barbara Lindsey of Alton (N); Louise Gudeman of Hampshire (F); Jean Smith of Lansing (N); and Myrna Schneider of Virden (F).

States Attorneys
Named state attorneys were Gertrude Caras of Litchfield (N); Betty Olsen of Onarga (N); Ada Jones of Elmwood (F); Sharon Guy of Paxton (N); Kathleen Angles of Henry (F); and Jean Pigott of DeKalb (F).

Picked county clerks were Jeanette Escarraz of Chicago (N); Mary Ann Johnson of Wood Dale (N); Sharon Erickson of Rockford (N); Rosalie Weber of Chenoa (F); Kenneth Low sang, with Mrs. Merle R. Mackey accompanying. The casketbearers were Art Willett, Sam Evans, Ivan Claudin, Bernard Lane, Clement Blackburn and Dean Robinson.

Morgan Farmers Vote On Quotas Saturday

Morgan county wheat growers apparently joined others in the nation yesterday by giving a favorable two-thirds majority in the referendum that would establish marketing quotas. The vote in the county Saturday was Yes, 203; No, 118, with 23 challenged votes that will be considered by the County A. S. C. committee Monday.

The vote in this county Saturday was much more favorable to wheat marketing quotas than it was a year ago. At that time only 297 of the approximately 1,100 eligible voters cast a ballot, with this result: 126 for, 144 against, and 28 challenged, to defeat the proposal which requires two-thirds majority to be effective. Following yesterday's vote, the nation's wheat will be supported at a minimum price of not less than $1.81 a bushel, which reflects 76% of parity. Had marketing quotas been defeated the price support would be set at 50%, or about $1.19 per bushel.

The vote at the five polling places in the county Saturday were: Franklin: Yes, 38; No, 28; Challenged, 4; Total, 70.
Woodson: Yes, 38; No, 30; Challenged, 2; Total, 70.
Alexander: Yes, 41; No, 25; Challenged, 3; Total, 69.
Jacksonville: Yes, 37; No, 20; Challenged, 12; Total, 69.
Chapin: Yes, 37; No, 20; Challenged, 12; Total, 69.

Cairo Minister, John Holladay, Dies In Collision

VAN BUREN, Mo. (AP)—The Rev. John S. Holladay of Cairo, Ill., who was moderator of the Illinois synod of the Presbyterian Church until his term ended about two weeks ago, was killed Friday in a two-car collision.

Dr. Holladay, 55, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Cairo, was returning to his home alone after taking his wife, Mrs. Marie Holladay, to Wentworth, Mo., to visit her mother.

His car and the other automobile collided head-on about four miles west of Van Buren on Highway 60. Two other persons were hurt.

The minister is survived by his widow, two sons, Air Force Lt. John S. Holladay Jr., who is on duty in Alaska, and Robert, 11, and a daughter, Anna Marie Holladay, a student at the University of Illinois.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed but services probably will be held at Cairo Tuesday.

Flies To Peiping To Aid East-West Understanding

By ARTHUR GAVSHON
LONDON (AP)—A British diplomat flies to Peiping Sunday under orders to work for a wider settlement of Red China's disputes with the West.

He is 42-year-old Eton and Oxford-educated Count Douglas Walter O'Neill. He has been named as Britain's third charge d'affaires — and acting ambassador — since this country recognized the Communist government of Mao Tse-tung in 1950.

O'Neill's main immediate task in Peiping will be to help seek a basis of negotiation between Red China and the United States for a settlement of the Formosa dispute.

A gradual improvement in Red China's relations with the West — another British aim — might also lead to a relaxation of the West's trade restriction against the Communist country and pave the way eventually for Red China's admission into the United Nations.

O'Neill intends flying to Hong Kong and traveling from there via Canton by train to Peiping. He does not speak Chinese but intends to try to master the rudiments of the language.

Soap Box Derby Rules Reworked To Make Car Building Easier

The Jacksonville Soap Box Derby will be held Sunday, July 17, on West College avenue. There is still time for any boy between the ages of 11 and 15 to enter and build a car for this race and become a champion.

Official Soap Box Derby rules, which were revised extensively last year, have been strengthened even more for 1955 to make car building easier for each boy who enters the competition.

This is in line with the spirit of the Soap Box Derby to give all boys an equal opportunity to win the prizes and acclaim that go to champions.

Rule revisions are pointed out clearly in the new official rule book for 1955. Before you do anything, boys, go to your Chevrolet dealer's showroom and pick up your free copy of the rule book. You must have it and you must sign up with the dealer in order to enter the race. Study the rule book carefully and build your car to win.

In studying the rule book, pay particular attention to the change in rules relating to axles, welding, steering, floorboards and bulkheads. Other provisions are virtually the same as last year.

Barely a month after the 1954 All-American was held in Akron, the National Rules Committee and the Newspaper National Control Committee met in Detroit, September 17, to study the 1955 rules.

They approved the following changes for 1955:
Floorboards and bulkheads of Soap Box racing cars must be made of wood ONLY. The floorboard must not be less than three-quarters of an inch thick but may be thicker.

Axles may be reinforced by wooden axle trees ONLY.

Welding, soldering or brazing of any type is not permitted on Derby cars. However, the welding or brazing done by the manufacturers on official wheels, axles and commercially made steering assemblies is permissible.

A Derby car's steering wheel must operate to swing the front axle (on a kingpin) ONLY by means of cables attached directly to the front axle assembly. Any type of tiller bar steering is prohibited.

Cars winning local races must be shipped to Akron for the All-American with their wheels mounted on the axles. The wheels must not be removed. They must be left on the car exactly as they were when the car crossed the finish line.

Except for these revisions, rules are exactly the same as last year. But look closely at ALL the rules.

Remember that only official Soap Box Derby wheels and axle rods may be used on the car. Wheels and tires must not be altered in any way. Drilling, weighting, repainting wheels or tampering with bearings is forbidden.

Combined weight of driver and car may not exceed 250 pounds. Any built-up weight in the car must be of wood ONLY. Metal or material other than wood must not be used. Each boy must be able to prove he built his car himself.

Read carefully the rules covering brakes and steering, so that you will make your car a safe car. Follow the rules in building your car and not only will you pass through the official inspection easier but also you will stand a better chance of winning.

4-H BOYS AND GIRLS, 176 of them from five counties, last week found the 4-H camp on Lake Jacksonville a beautiful spot for fun and education. They made up the roster of the first regular camping period of the summer schedule, and they were from Calhoun, Jersey, McDonough, Fulton and Madison counties.

Those who had attended camp last year found the swimming and boating better, with the water front up a good seven feet and still rising.

The campers arrived Monday noon and returned to their home immediately after dinner Friday. During that period they studied nature, made things, played a bunch of games, went swimming and boating twice a day, developed evening programs with each tent group responsible for a skit or stunt, etc.

Last year about 1,200 boys and girls from the 19 counties that make up the Western Illinois 4-H Camping association spent five days at the Lake Jacksonville camp.

Joe Faggetti, assistant farm adviser of Morgan County, heads the seven member board that is in charge this season. Dale Daugherty of Jerseyville is the camp manager; Howard Groppe, also of Jerseyville, is the pioneering leader; Wesley Hilligoss of Springfield teaches crafts; Jean Nordburg of Benton leads recreation and her husband, Jerry, is in charge of the waterfront, and Minnie Whiteside of Jacksonville is camp nurse.

GRIGGSVILLE FAIR A COMMUNITY AFFAIR

A lot of people around Griggsville band their efforts annually to insure the success of the Western Illinois fair, which opens Thursday, but they say that Fair Secretary Bob Skinner and his assistant, Mrs. Don Connor, "are the ones who put in the hard work."

The association, now eight years old, has boomed the fair until it ranks among the very tops in the state. Attendance last year was 38,000 paid, with kids free, to put it in eighth position among the 96 county fairs in Illinois. This is quite an achievement, when the relatively sparse population of the area is compared with the heavier populations of other sections.

FARM GUNNERS PLAN PRACTICE SESSIONS

Foster of Alexander, chairman of the trap and skeet shooting squads that will enter the 1955 Illinois Farms Sports Festival shoot, announced that practice sessions will be held July 17 and July 24 at the Jacksonville Boat Club at Mauwaister Lake, beginning at 1:30 p. m. standard time each day.

Any family member of Farm or Farm Bureau is eligible to participate. Further information may be had from Foster or from Herschel T. Logsdon at the Farm Bureau office.

For instance, Ralph Newman, president of the park board; Commander Robert Bradshaw of the Legion and Eldon Sleight, president of the ball club, are automatically members of the executive board of the fair association.

Robert J. Myers of Griggsville is the association president and John McAllister of Pittsfield is vice president.

Shows of high calibre and good harness racing have caused many people of this area to return to the Griggsville fair. This year Skinner and his cohorts have done something brand new and there'll be dog racing on the first three nights, the first fair in the U.S.A.

There will be harness racing Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday afternoons. The Kochman Thrill show will be on hand for the opening afternoon and again on closing night, along with the Grand Ole Opry.

The Legion is in charge of ticket sales and parking again this year and the park board invites the public to use the picnic area, a wooded

Another cooperative phase, new this year, involves nearly a hundred flower boxes. These boxes were distributed among housewives and planted so that flowers will be in peak blossom this week. They'll be brought to the fairgrounds and used to decorate the stage and grandstand, and other spots on the grounds.

"The idea went over big," Skinner says, "and we're going to put out more boxes next year. With the kind of cooperation we have around here, being a fair secretary is a cinch."

Says U.S. Farmers Can Learn Lesson From Coffee Men

URBANA — American farmers can take a lesson from Brazilian coffee growers.

Brazil used to sell us two-thirds of our coffee. Now it sells us less than half, and at least nine other Latin-American countries are fighting for the United States coffee market.

H. C. M. Case, University of Illinois farm economist, says this change has come as a result of the efforts of Brazilian growers to keep coffee prices high.

On a recent trip through 11 Latin-American countries, he saw coffee land worth $1,000 an acre. When the drop in coffee prices came, buyers of this high-priced land were hurt.

Brazilian growers were somewhat successful in keeping coffee prices high for a while. But the high prices made coffee growing attractive to other countries. This meant increased production.

At the same time, high coffee prices in this country were responsible for coffee - stretching schemes that reduced the amount of coffee used.

Put the two together, Case explains, and you have a supply that is much larger than the demand, and trade difficulties are created on an international basis.

In Colombia an official suggested stopping imports of American automobiles to balance the imports with exports when coffee exports dropped.

In one week, the value of Brazilian money fell 20 per cent. The drop has since been restored, but such shifts are serious to a nation. A Costa Rican official told Case that his country would have been better off if coffee had not gone over 75 cents a pound.

This Week... At Dixon Springs

Self-Fed Chopped Hay to Sheep

Researchers at the Dixon Springs Station of the University of Illinois last winter cut needed labor in half by self-feeding chopped hay to sheep.

J. M. Lewis, assistant superintendent of the Station located in Pope county, reports no difference in the average weight of lambs self-fed chopped hay and those fed long hay.

Ewes also ate the same amount of self-fed chopped hay and long hay, Lewis says. However, the hay that was fed was high-quality second cutting. If you put up first cutting or coarser, you can expect to make better use of chopped hay.

Another advantage of chopped hay is that you can store it in less space than baled hay. Chopping also uses less field labor than baling, and with a few minor changes you can use your field chopper for making silage, whereas your baler has only one use.

On the other hand, Lewis points out that hay to be chopped should not have a moisture content higher than 15 percent. You should also be sure to store it where you plan to use it next winter, because it is hard to haul chopped hay to the stock.

In the tests on self-feeding chopped hay last winter at the Station, a flock of 160 ewes were divided into two lots of 80 each. Each lot was wintered on a ration of legume hay and whole oats.

Oats were limited to 1½ pounds per head daily for all ewes. Those in one lot were self-fed all the chopped legume-grass they would eat, while the others were hand fed all the same type of hay they would eat in the long form.

For the test, a self-feeding gate was put up in front of the stack of chopped hay. It was designed so that the ewes could get their heads through. This gate worked fine and practically no hay was wasted before the lambs were born. The ewes ate all of the chopped hay, whereas the ewes eating baled hay culled some of the coarser stems and grass.

However, after the lambs were born the ewes went through the original gate, lowering the palatability of the chopped hay and causing some waste. The feeding gate was rebuilt so that the ewes could get only their noses through, and then it was necessary to pull the hay down to the gate or move the self-feeder more often.

Plan Pond Water Demonstration In Scott County

Any farmer with a water problem is invited to attend a demonstration that will be held June 30 and July 1-2-3 at the Ray Johnson farm located about four and a half miles southeast of Winchester.

The demonstration will show how ponds can be used for all farm and home water purposes, water filters, piping systems, chlorinator, feedlot waterers, etc.

The Johnson farm was formerly occupied by Louise Christison. Turn east off Route 106 just north of the Illinois Rural Electric plant.

Although most of the work is expected to be completed during the first two days visitors will be welcome any of the four days. The event is sponsored by the Scott County Pond committee, which is made up of members of the Extension service, ASC, SCS, SCD, pump manufacturers, appliance companies and the Illinois Rural Electric company. The company expects to have full information on the cost of each operation demonstrated.

There are more than 3,322,000 miles of roads in the highway system of the United States.

WHEAT HARVEST TIME IN MORGAN

It's wheat threshing time in Morgan County again. Quite a few fields of Early Triumph were cut last week, and the bulk of the crop, barring too much rain, will be in the bin by the end of the week.

Again yields are high and quality is excellent. Reports of yields up to 40 and nearly 50 bushels per acre have been coming in.

The straw has been taken off some of the early harvested fields, and soybeans planted. With favorable weather the beans will make "a half or better

Wheat harvesting has been an interesting subject for historians and artists throughout the centuries. It seems almost unbelievable that some countries are cutting and threshing their wheat just as their ancestors did 4,000 years ago.

It took America, with its Yankee Ingenuity, to lead the rest of the world toward easy, fast and efficient harvesting methods.

BUT THAT PROCESS wasn't realized in a day, years ago. It was called "The Multi-Flail" and the operator must have been the busiest man in the land.

AND THIS COMBINATION harvester and the machine wouldn't work. The idea of it being thrasher was patented just a hundred years ago by a New Yorker. The artist's conception is beautiful, but ridiculous. It could happen only on paper.

IT TAKES 50 HORSES, couched in a six-cylinder engine, to operate this Oliver combine, one of the splendid self-propelled jobs made by U.S. farm implement factories. And only one man.

George Gimbel is shown seated at the controls as he gets ready to combine a field of barley on the Jim Crawford farm near Chambersburg.

The machine is no harder to steer than an automobile and a flick of hand and foot handles the hydraulic controls. There are six speeds forward, ranging from 1.4 to 9.5 miles per hour and if conditions are half-right the machine will cut and thresh 30-40 acres in a day. One machine like the one above threshed 2,100 bushels of wheat in a day last year.

The price tag, $4,979, makes many persons blanch, but it is some outfit.

The combine rules now, but if you and your children would like to see some old steam engines spinning old threshers you can do it Thursday, July 14, at Rees station.

FIGURES TO PONDER

There are a lot of mixed reactions to the extensive civil defense tests this country conducted recently. Some feel they were a great success because they seemed to demonstrate a high degree of cooperation among citizens, police and civil defense authorities. Others think the spectacle of the President and his top officials racing off to a hide-out was silly, and proved little.

But even the most generous-minded appraisers do not rate the test a success in the sense that it showed we could protect our city populations well against A and H-bomb attacks.

Officials estimate that the heavy, widespread assaults assumed for purposes of this test in 61 U. S. and territorial cities would have ruined the centers of all the cities and have killed five million people, injured five million more and left 10 million homeless.

These shattering figures may be hard to accept when only a theoretical attack is involved. But they ought to be pondered thoroughly. For even the best air defense and the best imaginable civil defense could not reduce them greatly. They are a frightening gauge of what a new war would be like.

$112,000 LESSON IN JUSTICE

About three years ago in New York City the courts set aside the conviction for murder of a man named Louis Hoffner, who had been tried and sentenced to life imprisonment 12 years earlier.

The wrongfully imprisoned man was freed, and now a judge has awarded him $112,000 from the State of New York in compensation for the injustice done him. This is only one of a number of such cases in U. S. judicial history, but it contains an important point that bears noting.

The judge who awarded Hoffner the money said he was strongly influenced to allow liberal compensation by the fact that Hoffner's prosecutors had withheld evidence which might have prevented the miscarriage of justice.

At Hoffner's trial a man positively identified him as the one who had earlier held up a bar and killed the bartender. Obviously this testimony was crucial.

But what the prosecutors failed to disclose was that the man making the identifications had been unable to do so when he first saw Hoffner in a police line-up. The witness went out of the room for 10 minutes with detectives, and when he returned to the line-up he positively picked Hoffner.

Furthermore, another man asked to identify the suspect in the line-up never did so at all.

All this information was set forth in police department stenographic notes in the prosecutor's possession, but not known to the defendant's counsel, nor ever revealed in court.

The prosecutors who concealed this evidence were clearly not interested in establishing the truth of Hoffner's innocence or guilt. They were after a conviction. They wanted to make a record. And in behaving thus they went against both the letter and the spirit of American justice.

The first principle of our justice is to protect the innocent, not to punish the guilty. The prosecutors of Hoffner forgot it, to their everlasting shame.

One celebrated lawyer who did not forget it was Homer Cummings, a New Englander who became Franklin Roosevelt's attorney general. Cummings once was prosecuting a man for murder with an array of evidence which seemed far more conclusive than that against Hoffner. But he began to have serious doubts. And he, the prosecutor, wound up proving the defendant innocent.

That is the true path of justice in this country. We must hope that the court's award of $112,000 to Louis Hoffner will serve as a forceful reminder to America's prosecutors everywhere that no other course ought ever to be ventured in the name of the law.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower can take enormous comfort from the clobbering Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) took this week, not because it was McCarthy, but from the significance of the clobbering.

The Senate smashed 77-4 a proposal by McCarthy which would have interfered with, if it didn't wreck, Eisenhower's dealings with the Russians in the Big Four meeting in July.

The vote was, in effect, an expression of confidence by an overwhelming number of senators of both parties in letting Eisenhower use his own judgment at the meeting in Geneva.

Only four Republicans, including McCarthy, voted for the proposal. All the Democrats and other Republicans on the floor at the time joined forces in refusing to tell Eisenhower what he should do or handcuff him before he started.

This was the kind of bipartisan support presidents dream about but which few get on the eve of the kind of negotiations Eisenhower faces.

McCarthy's defeat was engineered by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Democratic leader of the Senate. Standing right beside him was Sen. Knowland of California, the Republicans' Senate leader.

Eisenhower has received more cooperation from the Democrats on foreign policy since they took over in January than he got from his own Republicans in the two previous years when they ran the Senate.

For in those two years the Eisenhower administration's handling of foreign policy was under constant attack by McCarthy. And even Knowland repeatedly and publicly differed with the President. Knowland hasn't been doing that lately.

The cooperation given Eisenhower by the Democrats in the foreign field is particularly conspicuous when compared with the constant criticism heaped on his Democratic predecessor Harry Truman by the Republicans.

McCarthy proposed that the Senate tell Eisenhower to demand of Russia, before the Big Four meeting, an agreement to discuss the question of Communist control in countries in Asia and Europe.

If the Senate went along with McCarthy—and Eisenhower let the Senate dictate to him how to handle foreign affairs and made the demand on the Russians—the latter probably would have refused any meeting. If, by the far-fetched chance they agreed, they in turn could make demands on Eisenhower.

Johnson said McCarthy was trying to put Eisenhower in a strait-jacket. McCarthy suddenly introduced his suggestion Monday and wanted fast action. Johnson said he'd get it. He sent the proposal to the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee at once.

On Tuesday that group, made up of Democrats and Republicans, condemned it 14-0. Then Johnson brought it out on the floor Wednesday. The vote that followed was a slaughter for McCarthy and a hearty pat on the back for Eisenhower.

Fried Chicken Takes New Glory From Zesty Tomato Garlic Sauce

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

For the 4th of July cook-out, try this fried chicken with a highly flavored sauce. Something different!

Fried Chicken in Tomato Garlic Sauce

(Makes 4 to 5 servings)

One broiler-fryer, 2½ pounds, cut up; ½ cup flour, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon ground pepper, ½ cup butter or margarine, ½ cup chopped onion, 1 clove garlic, whole; 1 cup chicken broth, 1 cup tomato juice, salt and pepper to taste, ½ cup chopped parsley.

Shake chicken, 2 or 3 pieces at a time, in a bag containing the flour, salt, paprika and pepper to coat evenly. Brown slowly in medium hot fat in a skillet turning as necessary with kitchen tongs until chicken is lightly browned, 15 to 20 minutes. Add onions, garlic and broth and cook slowly 10 minutes. Add tomato juice, cover tightly and simmer for about 15 minutes or until fork-tender. Season to taste, sprinkle with parsley and serve.

Stuffed cabbage roll is a popular economy dish. Use either leftover or canned meat. It's really a wonderful dish for informal entertaining.

Cabbage Meat Rolls

(8 servings)

One large head of cabbage, 1 12-ounce can corned beef, ground or 12 ounces ground leftover meat, 1 cup minced onion, 1 cup packaged precooked rice, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, 1 cup grated American cheese, 1 No. 2½ can tomatoes.

Cut core from cabbage and carefully separate 16 leaves. Parboil cabbage leaves in boiling, salted water about 3 minutes. Drain leaves and lay out, placing two together so that you have cases for 8 rolls. Combine next five ingredients. Divide evenly between cabbage leaves. Roll up each, folding ends toward the center. Secure with toothpicks. Place in 12-inch or large skillet coated with melted butter or margarine. Drain tomatoes and place in border around edge. Sprinkle with cheese and pour over the tomato liquid. Cover and simmer 40 minutes, until tender.

MONDAY'S DINNER: Cabbage meat rolls in tomato cheese sauce, new potatoes, Vienna-style bread, butter or margarine, rhubarb lattice pie, coffee, tea, milk.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Religion in National Life

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Recently in a Boston suburb—I think it was in the town of Winchester—when Roman Catholics sought to hold an observance of the Mass in a public park, permission was refused. It looked like a piece of narrow-minded Protestant interference but actually only a few weeks previously, when Methodists sought to hold a dawn Easter service in the same place, there was the same refusal. A third religious group also was turned down.

The refusals were at least consistent and they were because of some legal obstacle coming from the strict interpretation of the separation between church and state.

I suppose that in Canada and the United States, where such separation has long been in effect, there are few people who would wish to see it different, however much many might like to see such separation modified in various respects.

But the whole situation has some strange aspects.

In the Canadian motherlands of England and Scotland, church and state are officially united through nonconformists now have well established rights.

In neither Canada nor the United States does separation between church and state mean separation between the state and religion. Governors and officials are inducted into office under oaths to God, legislative assemblies are opened with prayer, chaplains are installed in armed forces and in some public institutions and in the United States coins bear the expression of faith, "In God We Trust."

When one considers the number of countries in which religion is a direct establishment of the state and is financially supported by the state, the strangeness of the contrast is emphasized. The state establishment of religion is not only found in so-called Roman Catholic countries, such as the Argentine Republic where Peron is at present feuding with the Church and having his minions voting disestablishment. In Protestant countries like Sweden, there is state support of religion as a state establishment even more pronounced than in England and Scotland.

In ancient Israel the ideal was a "commonwealth of Israel," a God-ruled community in which church and state were one. Even in Israel that ideal was never wholly achieved.

The warning and prophecy of Samuel (I Samuel 8:10-18) is an amazing document for the aspects of kings in history have been dire enough. But the people, nevertheless, wanted a king and king-worship is still a powerful factor among peoples and in world affairs.

In such countries as the United States the greatest of the many problems that confront the democracy is the problem of making religion vital and effective in individual lives and in all social relationships, while at the same time maintaining the formal separation between the state and the various free establishments of religion. To keep religion free and, at the same time, the greatest power in moral and spiritual control of thought and action is a sound ideal in a democracy for state and church.

SURPRISE ROUNDUP

WINFIELD, Iowa (AP)—When their 24 head of cattle broke out of the pasture during a night storm, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Underwood went out in the dark to round them up.

Next morning, instead of 24 animals, they found 45 critters in the pasture. The extra 21 steers, they learned, belonged to another farmer three miles away. They also had stampeded during the storm.

Farmers' Vote on What Is Vital Choice of Policy

BY PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—The most important vote in the United States prior to the presidential election in November 1956 is the Department of Agriculture's national wheat market quota referendum on June 28, 1955.

As a matter of fact, the swing of the farm vote in 1956 may be determined by the outcome of this wheat referendum.

The actual question on which the farmers will vote is:

"Are you in favor of marketing quotas for wheat for the 1956 crop?"

The outcome of this election will decide what government controls and price supports there will be on wheat planted in the fall of 1955 or the spring of 1956, and harvested in 1956.

There are an estimated 900,000 farmers eligible to vote in this election. Anyone who has a direct interest in the planting of 15 acres or more in wheat, in any of the 36 commercial wheat states, is eligible to cast a ballot. This will include about 600,000 farm owners and 300,000 tenants. Absentee landlords don't get a vote, but cash renters do.

Actually, Only about 450,000 are expected to show enough interest in the referendum to cast a ballot in the county polling places. And two-thirds of the farmers voting must favor wheat marketing quotas before they can be put into effect.

In the 1953 election, 80 per cent voted, "Yes." In the 1954 election 73 per cent voted, "Yes." This year's election is expected to be closer still. No one can predict how it will go.

Department of Agriculture tabulators will receive telegraphic returns in Washington all night. Some time Sunday they hope to announce the result, unless it's so close that a recount will be necessary.

The question on which the wheat farmers vote looks simple. But behind it is a tremendously complex economic situation.

The farmers are voting on marketing quotas—not on acreage allotments. The total commercial wheat acreage is set by law at 55 million acres for the nation.

If Two-thirds of the Farmers voting on June 28 decide they will accept quotas, then any cooperating farmer who violates his allotment is subject to a cash penalty on every bushel of excess wheat he produces.

If the farmers accept quotas, they will be eligible to receive price support at the level of 76 per cent of parity. Without going into all the complications of how the figure is obtained, this amounts to $1.81 a bushel, as a national average for all grades of wheat.

This compares with the May 15, 1955, parity price of $2.51. The drop reveals why farmers this time may vote against quotas.

If more than one-third of the voting farmers decide against quotas, then there will be no penalties for any excess wheat grown by any wheat farmer.

Acreage allotments would still remain in effect as the basis for eligibility to receive price supports. The price support level, however, would by law be dropped to 50 per cent of parity or only $1.19 a bushel.

Some Farm Experts Believe this level is so low that it would not be effective as an inducement for farmers to stay within their acreage allotment.

Farmers might decide to plant more wheat, so as to keep their income at a higher dollar level, even though the price was down. Wheat acreage might zoom back to the 78,000,000 figure of 1953. This would mean a tremendous over-production of wheat. And it would create a terrible problem of what to do with it.

By July 1, the government will have on hand approximately a billion bushels of wheat, worth two and a half billion dollars.

A vote against quotas might be taken as an indication that farmers were tired of government farm programs. This would be the beginning of the end for price supports and return to a free market. Into this situation Congress might step, to take nobody knows what action, with an eye on the 1956 elections.

Manners Make Friends

A reader says that in the past few months she has bought three wedding gifts for brides she scarcely knew and whose parents she knew only casually. Sending out wedding invitations to persons who are mere acquaintances of the bride's parents works a real hardship on those who feel that if they are invited to a wedding they have to send the bride a gift.

Looks a little like gold-digging, too.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Manana may be soon enough for the Latins, but Mrs. Ruth Martin thinks 17 years of mananas is too long to wait for a letter. A friend traveling in South America wrote her from Chile in 1938. It was delivered to her in 1955.

Postmarks that could be distinguished indicated that the letter was still knocking around Chile in 1941. There was no way of telling what happened to it after that.

How many electric outlets should you have — and where?

WRONG—This "duplex" outlet is trying to serve a jungle of extension cords and plugs. Overloading like this is aggravating, inefficient and even dangerous... it can lead to overheated wires.

RIGHT—This outlet is doing the job it was designed for—connecting two appliances simultaneously. It should be located only a step or two from the area where appliances are used.

REDDY KILOWATT SAYS:

"This check list will remind you of the many appliances you use and the average wattage they consume. Remember that a circuit with a 15 amp. fuse can safely handle about 1750 watts at one time... no more. With enough electric outlets, connected to sufficient circuits with heavy enough wire, you'll avoid overloading. You'll find it much easier to use your appliances, too!"

living room

A good rule of thumb is "an outlet for every 12 feet along the wall." Maximum load for each circuit: 15 amp. fuse—1750 watts; 20 amp. fuse—2300 watts.

Organ Grinders, Monkeys On Square

Children enjoy old-time treat

You don't see many organ grinders around these days. Time and city laws have just about made them things of the forgotten past.

But a couple passed through Jacksonville last week and spent a couple of days entertaining the boys and girls (and grownups too) around the Jacksonville square. Did you hear the gay music and see the little monkeys?

The lively, friendly, intelligent can Capuche monkeys, are named Duke and Jocko. The Capuche monkeys, Parnell said, are popular among organ grinders because they're friendly and easy to train. But, he said, working for an organ grinder is a hard job for a monkey—the animals cannot keep up their pace for more than eight hours a day or they will get sick.

FAMOUS BIRTHDAY

By Dorris Walsh Hendrickson

Next Wednesday, June 29 is the anniversary of the birth of Peter Rubens who was born in 1577. Rubens always liked to draw. When he grew up he studied painting and became a great Flemish painter. Rubens liked to make very large paintings. Many of his works are in the great churches and cathedrals of Europe, and in the royal courts of England and Italy.

You will find books with copies of Rubens' best known paintings in the Public Library.

THEY'RE AFTER HIS HAIR

DETROIT (AP)—Police are looking for a distinguished appearing man with brown hair greying at the temples. A bald man ordered a toupee from a wig shop. He tried it on to make sure it was a good fit; then walked out without paying the $155 bill. That's the fellow they're looking for.

Red Finds A Way

At last a decision was made! Cautiously, with one eye on the route and the other on the family cat, who by this time had taken a personal interest in the scene below, he took a firm grip on his ear of corn, and blazed a new trail across the barn lot. Up one end of the barn he hurried, and across the tin roof to the implement shed. Here he lowered his supple body to the tractor wheel, across the seat and the other wheel. Then, with seeming ease, he jumped to the board fence and skittered across the gate to the line fence. Pausing for only a moment, he almost flew to an overhanging branch. From here on it was easy going!

The tree home was only a hop and skip away, and his little feet remained clean and dry enough to satisfy any scolding wife.

Red Knows How

Now, thought foolish I, how will he get that huge ear of corn into the hole in the tree? But I had misjudged those "caliper" jaws. Expertly he inserted the ear endwise. With a final push, and a flip of his tail, the larder was filled!!!!

I just couldn't help thinking how wonderful is the world of nature. Here we had an animal of the woods, perfectly able to fend for himself but cunning enough to learn the ways of man and to take advantage of them.

The Home Run Kid

By Ray Broekel

Chapter One

Up and over the fence sailed the ball. The spectators in the bleachers shouted their approval as Sam Downey rounded the bases.

Mr. Barnsdall, the coach of the team, turned to a fan sitting behind him and said in a cheery voice, "I guess we'll have to call Sam 'the home run kid.' That's his sixth homer in six games."

Sam's teammates were waiting at the plate to shake his hand as he came rounding third.

Sam Was Proud

Sam's face was flushed with excitement as he quickly took the hands of his fellow players. He was feeling rather proud of himself. "Not every ball player can say that he has hit six homers in the last six games," he thought to himself.

Carl Adams, the next batter, grounded out short to first, and the side was retired. The Atomizers then went out on the field.

Sam picked up his first baseman's glove from underneath the bench, got a warm-up ball, and trotted out to his position.

He threw a few grounders to the rest of the infield so that they could loosen their arms up.

Atomizers Are Ahead

The Atomizers were chatting happily, since they were ahead of the Panthers by a score of 7 to 2.

Pete Morris, the catcher, signalled to his second baseman to cover for the throw. The ball was then thrown around the infield before Sam took it over to Cal Theiss, the pitcher.

"Okay, Cal, just one more inning. Then the game is in the bag," said Sam. He gave Cal a pat on the seat of his pants and trotted back to his position.

Cal didn't have too much trouble with the Panthers in the last inning. The first two batters flied out. The third batter popped a single into right, but he was out at second when he tried to steal on the next pitch.

In First Place

The Atomizers were a gleeful bunch of players as they gathered around their coach after the game. The season was about one-third over, they were in first place and still going strong.

"Now boys," said Mr. Barnsdall, "even though we're in first place, we're not going to let up. We don't play again until Friday, so unless we get in some practice before then, you'll all get a little rusty. How many of you can be out at Webber School playground tomorrow at two?"

All of the players except Sam raised their hands.

"You can't be there, Sam?" inquired Mr. Barnsdall.

Sam's Not Coming

"No," replied Sam. "I have to run some errands for my mother tomorrow afternoon."

Sam, however, didn't say what he was really thinking. In his mind

Stormy

By Connie Spaenower

Connie Jo sent a letter with her drawing of Stormy. We think you would like to read it—

Dear Readers:

I am sending you a picture I drew of my colt Stormy. He is two months old.

I guess you are wondering why I called him Stormy.

The morning he was born it was raining and was real chilly. So I named him Stormy.

Stormy is what I have always wanted, a colt of my own. I hope to teach him many tricks.

He is all white except a very few red spots. I wish you could see him, he's a beauty. His mother's name is Beauty. She belongs to my brother Nelson.

I am nine years old and a pupil of North Jacksonville school. I will be in the 4th grade.

Faithful Reader,

Connie Jo Spaenower, Jacksonville, Ill.

PUZZLE

PROBLEM

Last week our puzzle problem was the old verse—

As I was going to St. Ives I met a man with seven wives

Each wife had a sack

Each sack had seven cats

Each cat had seven kittens.

Kits, cats, sacks and wives, how many went to St. Ives?

Answer

The answer is—one. I told you there was a catch in it. You see, if he met them, they were surely going the other way from the way he was going (to St. Ives).

If they had been going to St. Ives too, he would have caught up with them, or passed them, but he wouldn't have MET them.

Know A Puzzle Problem?

Do you know a puzzle problem? Something with a catch in it, that makes us stop and think just what it really says?

If you do, send it to—Junior Journal Courier, 110 S. West St., Jacksonville, Ill.

FEW FLATFEET

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Youngstown policemen have better feet than most people, a study by the Mahoning Valley Chiropractic Society shows. It found 68 per cent had some kind of foot ailment, but added that 80 per cent of American adults have foot trouble. There's a smaller percentage of flat feet among policemen than in most American males, say the chiropractors.

The Statue of Liberty was unveiled on Oct. 28, 1887.

WALL IS BUILT

"And now," says the boy, "the Roman wall is complete! For more than thirty miles, it stretches from the Firth of Forth to the Firth of Clyde; from the east coast of Scotland to the west coast."

TRAFFIC RATTLED

BETHEL, N.C. (AP)—A traffic snarl developed here when a rattlesnake coiled at an intersection and struck at passing cars. Then Jerry Autman drove a farm tractor over its head and collected a souvenir—14 rattles.

SOUND MEANS DANGER

"Ay, I do, and they mean danger for Scotland!"

The men in the circle look puzzled and sad. Far down the river bank a boy can be seen running toward the group.

As the figure comes closer, the men in the group rise.

"It is Robert!" "Robert has returned!"

SUMMER FUN CONTEST

By Bruce Crawford, 901 Edgemoor, 10 years

Boys and girls doesn't this give you an idea for something to write about for the SUMMER FUN contest?

For this contest write about whatever kind of fun you are having this summer—swimming, teaching your dog tricks, reading (maybe in the Public Library contest), or—oh my, there's so many ways to have fun there isn't room for nearly all of them.

How Long?

How long does the contest last? All vacation, but we will print your article as soon as we have room for it. You may send in more than one story.

How long should it be? Write about 100 words or so about the fun you're having.

Prizes?

Yes, there will be prizes awarded at the end of the contest. One for the best boy, best girl, next best boy and next best girl.

Now, the secret I've told you was coming. Every boy and girl who enters the Summer Fun contest will get something. Of course that's as much of the secret as I can tell you.

You may include a snapshot if you wish.

Where To Send

Send your letter to—JUNIOR JOURNAL-COURIER (SUMMER FUN) 110 S. WEST ST. JACKSONVILLE, ILL.

JOURNEYS INTO THE PAST

THE ROMAN WALL

By Hugh M. Jones

The drums are beating—from the lands of Fife to the rocky shores of Orkney Isles!

"Oh sing of Scotland," say the drums. "Oh sing of the bonny land of the fir tree and the golden eagle!"

Before the Romans came to Scotland, the people lived in rough stone huts which provided the most barren type of protection from the wind and weather. A golden eagle of Scotland soars downward from the lofty mountains.

"What were the names of some of those old villages?" we ask him.

"Skara Brae in Orkney," he answers. "Rinyo in Orkney, and Jarlshof in Shetland."

The year is now 142 A.D. A sound of metal hitting stone can be heard faintly above the high, shrill October wind.

Foreign Sound

"That," says the eagle, "is a foreign sound, a Roman sound."

The eagle flies through the windy skies in the midst of floating autumn leaves lifted by the gale.

Dug into the hills are pits lined with stone. Inside the pits are stone shelves for keeping food and household articles, chairs, and little openings along the sides of the pit where the householders may have dwelt during inclement weather.

Strange Houses

Twenty or thirty of these "houses" can be seen. This is an early Scottish village on the Firth of Forth (which is the opening of the river Forth). Several of the villagers are huddled around a fire in one of the homes.

"Do you hear the hammer beats?"

Sound Means Danger

"Ay, I do, and they mean danger for Scotland!"

The men in the circle look puzzled and sad. Far down the river bank a boy can be seen running toward the group.

As the figure comes closer, the men in the group rise.

"It is Robert!" "Robert has returned!"

Robert, the son of one of the villagers has been gone for a year, ever since the Romans raided the village.

At that time the Romans carried off all of the men and boys they could find to build the Roman Wall.

Wall Is Built

"And now," says the boy, "the Roman wall is complete! For more than thirty miles, it stretches from the Firth of Forth to the Firth of Clyde; from the east coast of Scotland to the west coast."

SUPERSONIC RAIN

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—An aircraft company makes artificial rain in a pipe and shoots cannon shells through it. The purpose is to find out what the rain does to the shells—not vice versa—and is a project for the U.S. air force.

The study is to determine the amount of rain erosion, or damage, to objects traveling through it at supersonic speeds up to 2,000 miles an hour. The 20 mm. cannon are fired through a 500 foot pipe, into which water is sprayed through holes. The shells exploded 1,500 feet beyond the pipe's top and parachutes float the test specimens down to the researchers.

Chevrolet's special hill-flatteners!

162 H.P. V8

180 H.P. V8

See that fine fat mountain yonder?

You can iron it out, flat as a flounder . . . and easy as whistling!

Just point one of Chevrolet's special hill-flatteners at it (either the 162-h.p. "Turbo-Fire V8" or the 180-h.p. "Super Turbo-Fire") . . . and pull the trigger!

Barr-r-r-o-o-o-oom!

Mister, you got you a flat mountain!

. . . At least it feels flat. For these Chevrolet V8's gobble up the toughest grades you can ladle out. And holler for more. They love to climb, because that's just about the only time the throttle ever comes near the floorboard.

And that's a pity. For here are engines that sing as sweetly as a dynamo . . . built to pour out a torrent of pure, vibrationless power. Big-bore V8's with the shortest stroke in the industry, designed to gulp huge breaths of fresh air and transmute it into blazing acceleration.

So most of the time they loaf. Even at the speed limit they just dream along, light and easy as a zephyr, purring out an effortless fraction of their strength.

. . . Until an emergency screams "NOW!" . . . until your foot bangs down and that V8 explodes into action . . . a tornado of fiery concentrated urge that snatches you ahead to safety like the crack of a whiplash!

An engineer can run his eye over the specifications of these V8's and instantly understand why they are so hyper-efficient . . . how friction is held so low they need just four quarts of oil instead of the usual five or more . . . how big valves and short manifolds let them "breathe" deeply for maximum power . . . how the 12-volt electrical systems (exclusive in Chevrolet's field) provide twice the punch for cold-weather starts and faultless high-speed firing.

But you don't have to be an engineer to know that these are the sweetest running V8's you ever piloted. Just come in, slip behind the wheel, point the nose at the nearest hill, and feather the throttle open. These V8's can do their own talking . . . and nobody argues with them!

How should the buyer in JACKSONVILLE choose a room air conditioner

WHEN THERE ARE SO MANY BRANDS TO CHOOSE FROM

"Who makes it" is the safest measure. York units are thoroughly engineered and completely manufactured by craftsmen, not merely "assembled." York's superior craftsmanship is seen in the hermetically sealed cooling system, backed by a 5-Year Protection Plan. York's Modulation Control keeps you comfortably cool automatically, regardless of weather changes.

Another sure buyer's guide: quietness. Sensitive decibel meters measure the whisper of Yorkaires, prove they surpass all standards for quiet operation. This means better sleep, real relaxation. Big control knobs, clearly identified, make Yorkaires easy to operate, yet tamperproof to prevent mishandling. Magic Heat Pump converts air cooler into air warmer for chilly days!

Finally, "who installs it" is an important guide. Correct selection of air conditioning capacity and planned positioning of the unit make the difference between "fair" and excellent performance. Our factory-trained installation engineers know the science of air conditioning—make fast, convenient installation to give you efficient cooling for many trouble-free years.

General Wood, a native of Kansas City, Mo., and a graduate of West Point Military Academy, has a distinguished career in the U.S. Army before entering the merchandising field.

Joining Sears in 1924 as a vice president, General Wood originated Sears retail system and was the guiding genius of the company for three decades. He was elected president of Sears in 1928 and chairman of the board in 1939. He retired as board chairman last year.

The election of General Wood to the Hall of Fame was based largely on his great influence on the nation's distribution patterns. In this way he has contributed immeasurably to the high living standards of the United States.

The Merchandise Hall of Fame was inaugurated in 1953. Nominees to the Hall of Fame are selected by a committee of 125 merchants throughout the nation and the election committee comprises 100 individuals including journalists marketing authorities.

POP GOES THE GRAVEL
INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Pop corn gravel delayed the paving of a section of the northern Indiana East-West toll road. The gravel contained particles with a shell surrounding a hard center. Moisture seeping through the shell caused the particles to explode like pop corn.

The construction firm had to get its gravel from another company.

River Bluffs Yield More Ancient Skeletons

Up to $45. light weight knit one and two piece dresses $15. Emporium.

These excavations into the tombs of an ancient race were not made in the land of the Pharaohs, but only 42 miles from Jacksonville in the Illinois river bluffs near Bedford, southeast of Milton.

Unearthed after centuries of burial in the sand and clay hills on the west side of the river, the several skeletons removed from the mounds may give archeologists a clearer picture of the people who inhabited this region.

These unusually graphic pictures of archeological research were taken by Elmer (Doc) Harford of Montezuma, Ill., at a place where excavation has been in progress more than a week. Thomas Gilchrist of Tulsa, Okla., nationally known in research work, is in charge of digging operations on the Harry Pierson farm, five and one-half miles southeast of Milton, off State Route 100.

Standing in front of an opening in the bluff (top photo) is Raymond Long of near Pearl, a collector of ancient relics. From the cave which was gouged in the bluff the researchers took the skeleton of a young female, probably about 20 years old. The skeleton was discovered at a depth of 31 feet in the mound.

At each end of the grave the archeologists found short pieces of wood, which had turned to powdery dryness. Some of the earth hiding the bones of an ancient people is "blue clay," a type of earth which appears to be a preservative. Several types of earth were encountered in the mound Raymond Long is inspecting.

The skeleton in the lower picture was unearthed only six feet down, in the edge of a mound. When the excavators uncovered the skeleton they found the skull was completely crushed. There was a separation of leg bones that could not be understood, but probably due to shifting of the earth throughout centuries.

Gilchrist and his associates have not announced scientific data concerning their finds in Pike county. The general opinion of residents of the Montezuma neighborhood is that the skeletons are those of Indians—how old they can only venture a guess.

The excavation work on the Pierson farm on a bluff overlooking the river is the first big operation of its kind in the vicinity since 1907, when the remains of a number of Indians or prehistoric people were uncovered.

Residents of the Montezuma area said evidence of several early day crematories believed to have been used by Indians has been found in the hilly country along the river.

Herbert Hoover To Leave Public Life As Group Expires

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON, June 26—For former President Herbert Hoover, the last public service is done.

On Thursday, June 30, the Hoover Commission, implacable foe of government waste and bungling, will expire. Then Hoover, its chairman for eight years, at 81 and with 41 years of almost constant, unpaid public service behind him, will retire to private life.

The 31st President leaves for consideration by the public, Congress and the President some two million facts about the nation's government, gleaned in the most thorough study any government ever had.

Hoover's efforts as chairman of the Commission on Organization of the Executive Branch of the Government, as it's officially styled, have not been an unqualified success. The ex-President himself, looking back on years of effort to reshape and streamline the government, still thinks there's "a desperate need for executive and administrative skill."

In some places, Hoover Commission recommendations have been greeted with complacency and inertia; in others with suspicion and hostility. There isn't even agreement on the commission itself.

One member, Rep. Chet Holifield (D-Calif.), for example, says: "I seriously doubt the wisdom of establishing a commission of this type and assigning it the broad field of government to study."

He says members of the commission have not been able to devote full time to the job and this has "necessitated the hiring of research people who frequently are chosen to reflect the philosophy of the majority . . . This leads to a biased presentation."

In any case, teams of commission investigators have looked over the shoulder of just about every agency head in Washington, inspected food in Korean foxholes, counted the Navy's 100-year supply of anchors and added up the Budget Bureau's books. They found room for improvement everywhere.

They turned up the fact that the nation has commitments and other obligations of 240 billion dollars above and beyond the 277 billions technically included in public debt.

While many of the commission's recommendations will never again see the light of day, Hoover can say there has been considerable improvement in day-to-day efficiency.

For his efforts Hoover has been accused of trying to turn back the clock to pre-New Deal days, when the function of government was conceived to be to preserve order, provide defense and stay out of the private business of its citizens.

In countless columns and speeches Hoover has been charged with seeking to turn the nation's publicly owned natural resources over to private enterprise for exploitation; "pilfering" some have called it.

But, whatever the charge, the man who made the high starched collar famous has gone ahead obeying his own belief in what is right and wrong.

Interviewed on the eve of retirement, Hoover appeared as the public rarely sees him—warm and friendly, with a hint of humor lurking in his speech. With a well-caked black briar pipe clutched in his left hand, he rose to shake hands, a plastic raincoat stuffed in his coat pocket, the high starched collar replaced by a shirt with almost no starch at all.

Asked which of the more than 30 commission reports submitted to Congress in the past eight years he considers most important, he picked one that still is pending before legislators.

"If I had to choose only one, it would be the one on the civil service. It was nearest my heart's desire."

One great trouble with the present government, he says, is that the men in the top civil service jobs "are not good enough—they got there by seniority and red tape."

That doesn't mean, he says, that they should be eliminated. But they should be moved to jobs more commensurate with their abilities.

He thinks there are about 8,000 managerial jobs in the government which should contain promise of "prestige and advancement" and which should be filled above a certain grade on the basis of merit.

Hoover says the commission also has dealt with "the thorny problem of the two-party system" as it relates to the civil service and has concluded that "any party elected has a mandate and ought to have the right to select those making policy."

Asked if the various investigating task forces were governed by any specific philosophy, Hoover replied:

"The purpose was to save the taxpayers money. But more important than savings was the realization that the whole social and economic foundation is based on private enterprise."

When he assumed the chairmanship of the commission Hoover said he was accepting his last public job. Asked if he still feels that way, he answered vigorously, "I do."

Despite his years Hoover has worked from about 7:30 a.m. to around 10 or 11 p.m., his only concession about an hour's nap after lunch. Even his lunches and suppers were work periods.

It was Sept. 29, 1947, that he took over the first commission, organized under President Truman. Its members evenly balanced between Republican and Democratic appointees, it went to work checking the efficiency of government operations.

The second commission, formed under President Eisenhower, had the added job of looking into policy fields and decisions. The balance of completed under Eisenhower.

The first commission proposed to take all the social security and medical agencies, plus some other related activities, and lump them under a new central agency headed by a Cabinet officer. The result is the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, set up by Eisenhower.

In the final weeks of its existence the Hoover Commission has shoved out a whole series of new reports, most of them highly controversial.

Whether any or all of them will be put into effect is problematical. But, as Hoover says, "these things take time."

SCALE OF COMFORT

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—It isn't the heat but the humidity, Osborne Fort Hevener says he coined the word by taking the nose of humidity and the tail of temperature, blending them to describe what makes you suffer in hot weather. He adds the temperature (in degrees) to the relative humidity (in percentage points) and divides by two. Then answer comes out in "humits," the unit for measuring "humiture."

For example if the temperature is 83 and the relative humidity 51 the total is 136 and divided by two the humidity is 68. Hevener says a 60 to 70 humidity is ideal. Over 70 it is stuffy, hot and uncomfortable. Under 60 it is chilly and likewise uncomfortable.

THE SLAVE AND THE FREE—A CONTRAST—Since 1939 the Communists have been eliminating human freedom, the West has been protecting and encouraging it—and more than a billion people throughout the world know it. Since 1939, Soviet and Chinese Communists, through force or political groups, have subjected 740,216,000 people. In the same period, non-Communist powers have granted freedom and self-rule to 692,969,000 people. Diagonal shading on map shows the USSR and countries it brought under its control in 1944 and 1945 alone, tabulated at left. Cross-hatch shading shows countries, listed at bottom, to which non-Communist powers have granted freedom, sovereignty and self-rule in about the same period.

Her Atlantic Flight Thrilled Nation - Then She Faded From Scene

By JACK STEVENSON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Twenty-eight years ago a beautiful young woman thrilled the world with her attempt to become the first aviatrix to span the Atlantic.

She missed reaching Paris by 300 miles as she and her co-pilot made a crash landing in the ocean. But Ruth Elder became the "Miss America of Aviation" and made an estimated $250,000 from personal appearances and movies.

Then came setbacks and six ill-fated marriages. Although she was one of the flashing figures of the golden '20s, Miss Elder withdrew from the limelight in later years. At one point she chose to sever all connections with her glamorous past, even to dropping her given name and adopting that of a favorite aunt, "Susan."

Today at 50 she has emerged somewhat from that retirement, although stating emphatically she has no desire to live a goldfish bowl existence. Last year she became secretary to an aviation company executive and says, "I just love being a working girl."

She admits that being at a desk at the same time each morning is something new for her. But her job gives her the opportunity to talk flying with those in the business and she still loves to take a flight.

"A couple of years ago I thought going up in a jet would be a wonderful idea," she recalls. "Then I cooled off on the idea. But if the opportunity came up, I'd probably say 'certainly' and then be scared to death."

She had little fear on Oct. 11, 1927, when she attempted to fly the ocean, but her most vivid memory of that flight was the crash landing she and George Hal-deman made 36 hours later in the Azores, 300 miles from Le Bourget field, Paris.

They brought their plane, "The American Girl," down on the crest of a wave near an oil tanker. It was an hour before the tanker could pick them up.

After her whirl in the movies, Miss Elder tried writing and later entered the advertising business. When her agency failed, she went through a series of marriages with the latest, to cameraman Ralph King, ending in 1953 on her charge he called her a "gray-haired old bag."

In addition to her job as secretary, the former flier has been working on her autobiography. She finds her work of the present "very gratifying."

The infestation is already serious in Kansas and is expected to be so in Missouri and other states as the crops mature. At right, Max Godfrey, of rural Parsons Kan., inspects army worm damage to the barley crop on his family's farm. Note stalks where heads have been chewed off. The voracious pests also attacked alfalfa and other crops.

MORE SPRAY DISPENSERS

CHICAGO (AP)—Spray dispensers which were first used to spread insect killer in World War II jungle fighting have developed into a major U.S. business. About 185 million units were filled last year by 105 firms for a 190-million-dollar business.

More than 300 products from shave lather to paint remover are now packaged in spray cans under 500 brands. Included are hair oil, deodorants, suntan oil, hand lotion, perfumes.

George Barr, who heads one of the largest firms, says prospects are that that you will be using even more spray cans in the future. Not only is the market for present products expanding, but more products are being spray-can-packaged, he reports.

Himself handicapped by a missing leg, Barr says the work of filling cans is important in employment of handicapped people.

Harold Stassen Confident In Role As Ike Peace Secretary

By ROGER D. GREENE
WASHINGTON (AP) — "If civilization cannot destroy armaments," said Britain's Lord Grey, "armaments will destroy civilization."

That was half a dozen wars and more than 30 years ago, long before the advent of the atomic bomb. Today the monumental task of finding a formula to control the awesome weapons of warfare rests in the hands of a tall, blue-eyed Minnesotan, long familiar on the American scene, who believes disarmament can be achieved at last.

Undaunted by countless broken dreams of the past—Versailles... Locarno... Geneva... the Kellogg-Briand pact—Harold E. Stassen looks forward with quiet confidence in his new role as the Eisenhower administration's "secretary of peace."

Skeptics suggest that Stassen faces a hopeless assignment, but the new Cabinet member says he has "an abiding faith" that a way can be found to avoid World War III through global disarmament. He will know more about the immediate outlook after the Big Four conference of President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and French Premier Edgar Faure which opens at Geneva July 18.

Presumably Eisenhower will carry some of Stassen's recommendations with him to Switzerland.

"Worldwide recognition of the tremendous destructive power of modern weapons, I believe, will become the most compelling reason for Russia and the United States and all other nations to reach agreement on disarmament," Stassen said in an interview.

Stassen has few if any illusions about the tremendous obstacles in his path—or about the wiles of Soviet Russia.

"First of all," he said, "the only safe basis for our future policy is to conclude that the rulers in the Kremlin have world domination as their fixed objective, and that they have a program to carry out that objective."

"We must make it clear that we will not accept mere words or treaties or assurances of peaceful intentions, but that we will look for actions that will definitely reduce the tensions of war."

Stassen thinks Russia's actions in the last few months—notably the Austrian peace settlement, the Soviet disarmament proposals of May 10 and Moscow's agreement to meet "at the summit"—apparently indicate some shift in policy.

"The latest Russian proposal for atomic inspection is still inadequate. And there is some question whether the recent Soviet moves may not be merely for bargaining or propaganda purposes," he says.

"It is extremely difficult to reach a conclusion from the present trend of events, but we may be moving from the cold war stage to a long race between rival systems."

"If so, it would be of great importance to mankind."

But Stassen is far from beguiled by Soviet talk of scrapping atomic weapons, while maintaining huge standing armies, as the road to peace.

When Eisenhower named Stassen last March 19 to the newly created post as special White House assistant on basic disarmament policy the President stated: "If this is not to be an age of atomic hysteria and horror, we must make it an age of international understanding and cooperative peace."

The appointment—the first Cabinet-rank post of its kind in U.S. history—prompted some talk on Capitol Hill that it was a political payoff to provide a new berth for Stassen when his $22,500-a-year job as chief of the Foreign Operations Administration expires June 30. His new job will pay him $20,000 a year.

It was recalled that Stassen played a key role in Eisenhower's victory over the late Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) at the GOP national convention in 1952. On the first ballot, though reluctantly, Stassen released his balky 24-man Minnesota "favorite son" delegation to the general and thus insured Eisenhower's nomination.

Stassen's aides insist, however, that he would never have taken on the new assignment if there was any implication of a payoff. They say he is convinced of the vital and urgent necessity of his job.

RIGHTS FOR DOGS?

DETROIT (AP)—Suburban Detroit's police dogs may wind up with human, instead of canine rights. City Attorney Dale H. Fillmore is weighing the question. John Baja Jr., a city councilman, posed it.

Baja said a customer objected when a policeman brought his dog partner into a restaurant. The customer said he himself hadn't been permitted this privilege. The city health code forbids it.

"The policeman," said Baja, replied that his dog was a law enforcement officer and was there on official duty. Now what I want to know is, is a police dog permitted to go where other dogs are persona non grata?

CAT TROUBLE

DETROIT (AP)—Curiosity doesn't always kill cats, but the Michigan Humane Society says it sure gets them into a lot of trouble. The society reports it has more cases involving cats than any other animal. They include cats in trees, cats on poles, cats in machines, cats between walls and cats lost, sick or poisoned.

MURRAYVILLE

MURRAYVILLE — Mrs. Alfred Sutton and sons, Carey and Roger, of Roodhouse accompanied by her mother, Mrs. W. W. AUDITION BY PHONE

OMAHA (AP)—An audition by telephone from New York has won 17-year-old Jane Fonda her first professional stage role.

She'll join her father, actor Henry Fonda, and Dorothy McGuire in the community playhouse production of "Country Girl" here June 24-28. It was with the same playhouse group that Fonda and Miss McGuire made their own debuts.

Jane Fonda phoned playhouse director Kendrick Wilson from New York one Sunday to ask for a "Country Girl" part. As far as Wilson was concerned she cinched an ingenue's role during a 20-minute long distance telephone audition.

But, Wilson said, it took some help from Miss McGuire to sell Fonda, who was in Hollywood, on the idea.

Jane is studying dramatics at a Troy, N. Y. school.

Award $22,000 To Chandlerville Man For Damages

Lloyd C. Gibbs Jr., of Chandlerville, was awarded $22,500 by a Sangamon county circuit court jury Thursday night. The jury awarded Gibbs a judgment for the entire sum against Louis Gietl, administrator of the estate of his brother, the late George Gietl, but found Russell D. Meredith not guilty of negligence in the case and did not assess damages against him.

Gibbs, through his father, Lloyd C. Gibbs, had sought $75,000 damages for injuries received on April 25, 1953, when a car in which Gibbs was riding was involved in a head-on collision with a car driven by Gietl, and the wreckage was then hit by an auto driven by Meredith. The accident occurred west of Springfield on Route 152. Originally action was taken against the Gietl Brothers auto repair firm as well, on the charge that Gietl was on business for the company at the time. At the close of testimony that count was dismissed on grounds of lack of proof that Gietl represented the firm at the time of the crash.

COMPLAINTS CHANGE MAYORS

RIDDLE, Ore. (AP)—Russell Welmer quit as mayor after two months in office because, he said, he just couldn't put up with people's petty complaints. The city council had a logical successor: G. J. Aspey, who had lost to Welmer in the election by only one vote. He said he'd try to put up with the complaints.

A Tribute To Our Priests!

As we rush through the days in this modern tempo of Twentieth Century living, let us pause now and then and thank God for those patient, consecrated fathers of the Catholic Church whose lives are devoted to things of the spirit. They are truly the shepherds of today... leading, comforting, feeding their flocks with spiritual sustenance... administering to the poor... and carrying on the work of our Holy Father. Our community is a better place in which to live and worship because of these men of the cloth. They richly deserve the plaudits and support of all of us. We salute our Roman Catholic churches and their understanding priests!

Death Has 3 Lives

by Brett Halliday

JOE AGNEW beamed at him happily. "But I dunno for sure now. After, when I got to thinking I wondered if maybe I'd heard a shot that made me swing the corner. Only, then, I thought it was a back-fire, I guess. I mean I didn't rightly know it was a shot, except maybe I sensed it. So I slowed and turned the corner, and sure enough my headlights pick up this man in the street right ahead, kind of half running away from me. Not running really, but trotting, I'd say. And he looked over his shoulder and saw my cab lights and waved to me and out of the corner of my eye I see these other two guys on the sidewalk and they look like maybe they're wrestling or fighting.

"But I didn't think much about them. They weren't looking for an empty cab. So I pulled up and leaned back to open the door and the sort of tumbled in on the seat. He was young and his face sort of white and kind of scared looking, and he turned to look back, and then said sharp, 'Get going, can'tcha?'

"So I started rolling and says back, 'Not smart-alecky, you know. Anywhere special you want to go?' And he gave me an address, then, the same one I gave the police later. I got it in my log... and sort of slumped back breathing hard and I saw in the mirror he was sort of holding his hands tight across his stomach, but I didn't think much of it then, I say, I didn't think much of it then, but after...

"Did he say anything else to you?"

"Not much. Only one thing that was sort of funny. We were cruising along and I wasn't thinking about nothing much when I notice he's leaned way forward close to the back of the front seat

"like he's trying to read the notice that is in all cabs, you know. Got my picture and name and license number and all that. It's faded and hard to read with the glass over it, and nobody never does look at it anyhow because what do they care what a hackie's name or number, but I grinned back over my shoulder at him and says, just to make a sort of joke, you know, I say, just to make a sort of joke I says, 'It's me, all right. I got a li-slumped back like he was frightened and then said like it worried him. But I can't read your name or number there.'

"Joe Agnew, I says. Number so and so and so. 'Special rates,' I says, just for a gag, only it ain't really a gag because I own my own hack you see and do bring it home at night and sometimes do get special calls here at home after hours from particular customers who know me good and know I never mind getting up out of bed to accommodate them no matter how late it is, so I told him, 'Special rates on special trips when I'm off duty. Just call me at home any time, I says, that you can't get a cab no place else. And he said very polite that he might do that, and then I pulled up in front of that apartment house where he wanted to go.

"HE got out of the cab and said he was all right and stuck a wadded single in my hand and went up the walk. The fare was only 75 cents so that sort of evened up for the nickel tip I'd got just before but they do even up like that, I say, they do even up like that from morning to night so it's no use getting sore."

"Did you see him go in the door?" demanded Shayne.

Joe Agnew hesitated and screwed up his eyes thoughtfully.

"I think I did. The front door, you know. He was pulling it open, anyhow, when I drove away. So I thought no more about it, naturally, till half an hour later or so when I'd stopped for a cup of coffee and I heard the newscast telling about a broad getting herself choked on 18th Street a little while before and I knew the address was just about where I'd picked that fare up, and I got to wondering whether maybe it was a clue or something and should I report it to the cops, but I don't like to stick my neck out, I say I don't like to stick my neck out, so I thinks to myself, 'Better stay out of it, Joey boy. They'll have you on the carpet and you'll lose time and all for nothing, so I go back out to my cab parked outside and I'm just about to get in and cruise a little when something sort of seemed to make me open the back door and look in at the cushion."

"Mike Shayne, Will. Thanks for... the loan of your gun."

"Okay, Mike," rumbled Gentry. "If you'll dome one little favor, Will. That's all I'm going to ask."

"Some simple little thing like blowing up City Hall?"

"Not quite. Have you got a stake-out on the rooming house on 18th Street where the girl was strangled?"

"Man on the front door checking everybody in and out."

"Pull him off, Will. Right away."

"Now, look, Mike, I don't... I haven't time to explain why. Just do it. For half an hour. Put him back on after that if you want. I'm counting on you."

Brief Life Of Gen. Taylor, Army's New Chief Of Staff

By ROBERT EUNSON

TOKYO (AP)—Somebody once asked Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, the Army's new chief of staff, why he chose to be a paratrooper.

"I never knew why I picked that outfit," the lean, blue-eyed general replied, "until one day when I was talking to a private in Normandy."

Taylor explained that when he was commanding general of the 101st Airborne, he called on recruits whenever possible and welcomed these new men into the division. Among the questions he usually asked was "How do you like being a paratrooper?"

"I don't," a newcomer shot back one day in the field near Carant. "I don't like jumping out of airplanes."

"If you don't like jumping out of airplanes, then what are you doing as a paratrooper?" Taylor asked.

"Because I like being with men who like jumping out of airplanes."

"For gosh sake put 'er there," Taylor exclaimed, shaking the young recruit's hand. "That's the way I feel too, but I never realized it before."

Taylor has made seven jumps, two of them in combat. In Normandy and Holland he jumped with his division, the famed 101st that held firm at Bastogne when German Panzers hammered every other outfit around them out of the line.

Although his postwar jobs have been less demanding on the physique, he is still in top physical condition.

He stands a trim six feet and tips the scale at 175 pounds, which he calls his "fighting weight." He plays tennis three or four times every week and can hold his own with Grant Golden, 10th-ranking U.S. player, who "happened" to be a member of Taylor's staff in the Far East.

"I almost fired my GI (personal officer) for not telling me Grant Golden was in the 9th Corps," Taylor said one day, jokingly.

"Taylor won't have fat officers on his staff," an 8th Army colonel said once. "That's why hand ball."

SUCCESSOR — Wilbur M. Brucker, Defense Department general counsel, has been named secretary of the Army by President Eisenhower. Brucker, who served as governor of Michigan in 1931-32, succeeds Robert Stevens, whose resignation becomes effective at the end of July.

cars ARE MY Line

by: E. W. Brown

The fact that highway speed laws aren't really set by any scientific study of safety, but just seem to be numbers pulled from a hat becomes especially apparent when you drive through the U. S. You may cross two or three states in a day and find the speed limit jumping up and down between 50, 55 and 60.

The American Automobile Association recently proposed a new method for setting highway speed limits. The idea is to let motorists themselves decide what a safe speed is.

It's done, like so many things these days, with radar. The AAA has found that a safe speed is usually the speed travelled by 85 percent of drivers on any particular road. So the AAA has asked that state-wide or province-wide speed laws, many of them unrealistically low, be abolished in favor of the speed that radar devices show is the usual speed of 85 percent of motorists.

Figures I noticed recently showed that, contrary to what I always believed, most highway accidents don't happen at high speeds. A study in Nebraska established that 73 percent of all accidents occurred at less than 30 miles an hour. When speed limits were raised in Nebraska accidents were reduced and the average speed of the cars on the highway didn't change at all which only went to prove drivers were ignoring old speed limits anyway and driving at what they thought was a safe speed.

You just have to conclude that most drivers are ordinary people with good horse sense. We think so, so we have built our good name in the used car business by giving year-in, year-out value and satisfaction. Our best advertisement is the number of people who've come back time after time to buy cars from us.

Just traded for a '52 Chrysler Saratoga 4 Dr. Sedan. It's two tone green and is fully equipped including power steering. Better come in and see this one.
